Jack Carter defends dad's Playboy interview

Tonight's debates between President Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter could be important in deciding the outcome of the Nov. 2 election, according to Jack Carter, son of the Democratic presidential nominee.

Carter, 28, spoke at a press conference outside the Scott County Democratic headquarters, 201 N. New Madrid St.

Carter also defended his father's statements made during an interview with Playboy Magazine.

The debates are going to be valid this time, he said, largely because so many people are waiting to make up their minds on how to vote and because so many people do not know where Carter stands on the issue.

"I think what's going to happen is that we have a natural advantage because people don't really know where Jimmy Carter stands on a lot of the issues and this will give us a chance to clarify that," young Carter said.

"On the other hand, President Ford does not have that mystery about him and he won't be giving anything new," he added.

"I don't really anticipate that one side is going to out-president the other side on the kind of image basis they used in the 1960 debates," Carter said.

"Neither one of them is going to go in there with a five o'clock shadow," he added.

Young Carter spent a good part of the interview defending his father's comments to Playboy Magazine during an interview which will appear in the November issue.

The Democratic candidate said he had "looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times."

Young Carter said he doubted the comments would hurt his father's campaign.

Taken out of context the remarks might shock some people, he added, but what his father was trying to do was to tell Playboy how his religion and how his views on sex meshed.

He said he was not surprised by his father's language, which has been described as "salty."

He admitted the honesty of the article may have jarred some people, but said that when people get used to the interview they will accept it.

"One of our problems is that we come from so far out of the natural power base that people don't know us, so dad takes every opportunity to talk about anything people want to know about us, partly because it's something we need to do and partly because dad has a feeling that if he is going to run for President he owes it to the American people to let them know everything about him," Carter said.

When asked if he thought it had been politically wise to grant the interview to Playboy, he said, his father did not grant interviews by assessing the nature of the publication, unless it is really an "off-color" kind of publication.

Murder suspect held over

NEW MADRID— Doris Louise Parks, 50, of Marston, charged with murder in the Sept. 13 shooting death of Steve Wood, 62, in Marston, was ordered bound over to Circuit Court for trial following a preliminary hearing Wednesday before Judge John R. Bailey in New Madrid County Magistrate Court.

The woman, who was arrested shortly after the shooting, remains in custody under $5,000 bond.

The shooting occurred at 8:05 p.m. in the Wood home on Highway 61 where the accused reportedly had been living with Wood for about a year.

Prior to opening testimony from witnesses, the court-appointed defense attorney -- in an unusual procedure -- made an unsuccessful attempt to bar a Daily Standard reporter from the hearing, and to get restrictions placed on the coverage of the hearing.

The attorney claimed that t Daily Standard "is rather indiscreet in matters they publish", and charged that the news coverage could eventually deprive his client of a fair trial.

He suggested to Judge Bailey that the reporter should be excluded from the courtroom, or restricted in her reporting or "at least place some safeguards on my client's probability of receiving a fair trial."

The attorney contended that there would be unfavorable newspaper reports concerning the case, and claimed that because the Daily Standard was the daily newspaper read by most persons in New Madrid and adjoining townships, his client in no way could receive a fair trial.

Judge Bailey answered "It is usual that a reporter, as well as other persons, be permitted to attend hearings of this nature," and stated he would overrule the suggestion to exclude the reporter.

When the defense attorney pressed for restrictions on the press coverage, Judge Bailey told him "I don't really have anything to do with what she hears here."

Concluding his remarks, the attorney stated "Your Honor has a duty to see that this defendant receives a fair trial," to which Judge Bailey replied "I will attempt to take care of that as far as it is possible."

State's witnesses called by Prosecuting Attorney Hal E. Hunter Jr. were Coroner Gene Clayton and David Wheatley, who was present at the scene of the shooting. Deputy sheriff Willis "Bo" Wingo was the only witness called by defense counsel.

According to the coroner, Wood had died at the scene when he was shot with a .22 caliber rifle. The bullet entered the left breast. Clayton said the bullet had traveled through the body and was later removed seven inches below the right shoulder.

Clayton testified that when he arrived at the house he found Wood in a kneeling position with the upper part of his body lying face down in a chair.

He said only one empty .22 caliber shell was found in an

Ford and Carter cram for tonight's debate

AP Political Writer

Two men, candidates for president, meet face-to-face tonight to debate their plans for America before an audience that may number 100 million people.

And as Jimmy Carter and President Ford prepared for the debate, a U.S. Steel Corp. lobbyist confirmed that the company was host to Ford, when he was in Congress, at two overnight stays at a company house near Disney World in Florida.

Ford and Carter have taken vastly differing routes in their efforts to attract voters. Ford stayed in Washington, campaigning only once out of town and then at his alma mater in his home state of Michigan. Carter criss-crossed the country to shake hands and make speeches.

And the candidates crammed for tonight's debate in different fashions.

But Republican Ford and Democrat Carter planned to spend the day of the debates in much the same way. For both, rest was planned along with flights to Philadelphia where the debate begins at 9:30 EDT.

Their vice presidential candidates carried on the campaign in the field. Ford running mate Bob Dole was in Nebraska seeking the farm vote and Carter running mate Walter Mondale was stumping Wisconsin.

In a statement issued early today, U.S. Steel lobbyist William Whyte said Ford's overnight stays at Disney World in 1972 and in 1973 were in addition to three golfing weekends for Ford paid for by U.S. Steel at the company lodge in New Jersey.

The White House had no comment on the report of U.S. Steel's role in the Florida stays. But earlier this week, Ford spokesmen said there was "no evidence of wrongdoing" in the New Jersey trips.

In his statement, Whyte said he had been friends with Ford for more than 20 years and that "to my direct knowledge, Congressman Ford shared the use of U.S. Steel overnight accommodations, as my personal guest, on five occasions over the last dozen or so years."

A company spokesman said he did not know whether U.S. Steel paid Ford's travel expenses but that the company did pay for Ford's lodging in all five instances.

There have been questions raised that Ford might have violated the code of ethics of the House of Representatives, adopted in 1968. It prohibits members from accepting a "gift of substantial value, directly or indirectly, from any person, organization or corporation having a direct interest in legislation before the Congress."

For weeks the two presidential nominees have prepared for tonight's debate, the first of three. Each has studied thick briefing books.

Ford has rehearsed with stand-ins who threw questions at him and critique his answers. Carter has crammed largely in solitude.

At the same time, both have tried to play down the amount of work they were doing in preparation for the confrontation.

"I've not lost any sleep," Carter replied when recently asked about his upcoming debate with the Republican President.

Ford danced until 1 a.m. Wednesday at a state dinner at the White House. Was he ready for the debate, reporters asked?

"Of course I am," he said. "I'm getting in training by dancing."

No one could predict whether the debate would be a slugfest or a fencing match, whether the outcome would be a knockout, a narrow decision or a draw.

Not since 1960, when John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon debated, have two presidential candidates met in a face-to-face exchange of their views. Political scientists still discuss what effect the Kennedy-Nixon debates had on the outcome of the 1960 election, won by Kennedy.

Carter has said he doesn't believe the 1960 debates led to a dramatic shift in voter sentiment and he doesn't expect his meetings with Ford to be the decisive factor in the election.

"I don't think the performance over a 90-minute period, even repeated three times over, is going to dominate the final judgment of the American people," Carter told reporters in Plains, Ga.

Crop loss set at $6¾ million

Scott County requests state disaster aid

The Scott County Emergency Board has requested farm disaster aid for Scott County from the State of Missouri.

The board, headed by Kenneth Vowels, director of the Scott County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service, met at the ASCS office in Benton Wednesday to determine the amount of crop damage in the county. They filed their equest for disaster aid with the State Emergency Board in Columbia.

Members of the board are Vowels of Sikeston, representing the ASCS; Bobby Hicks of Essex, representing the Farmers Home Administration; Dan Frissell of Chaffee, representing the Soil Conservation Service; and John Garrett of Sikeston, representing the Extension Service.

The board estimated the loss in potential income at about $6¾ million for this year, or about 25 per cent of the overall crop income, based on the 1975 gross farm income of $28 million.

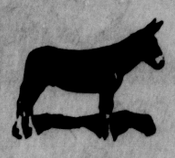
The major loss is from soybeans with an overall yield reduction of about 30 per cent on an estimated 125,000 acres now in production. Cotton is next with 9,600 acres and an estimated 40 per cent yield loss totalling about $1,036,800.

Other crop loss estimates include 20 per cent for grain sorghum, 50 per cent for pasture and 50 per cent for hay.

Vowels said if the county is approved for disaster aid, it will allow farmers who qualify to receive federal loans through Farmers Home Administration at a reduced rate of interest.

He noted that it is the opinion of the board that Scott County is not hurt as bad as some surrounding counties, but it will suffer a definite loss in farm income because of the drought.

"If we get the disaster declaration, it will allow some farmers who are seriously affected to apply for loans," he said.



Kathryn Kindle, 230 Kinder St., was incorrectly listed under police arrests in Wednesday's edition of The Daily Standard as being arrested for public intoxication. She was arrested for running a stop sign.

Bonds set at $50,000

BENTON — Two Cairo, Ill., men, charged with armed robbery of the Bank of Sikeston Midtown Bank on Sept. 16, appeared in Scott County Magistrate Court Wednesday before Judge Lloyd G. Briggs.

Judge Briggs found Roosevelt Baldwin, 38, and Carnell Littleton, 33, to be indigent persons and appointed attorneys to represent them, then set bond at $50,000 each and continued the case until Sept. 29.

The two men were arrested about an hour after the bank was robbed of $5,374 by an armed holdup man. The arrest took place in the parking lot at Sikeston High School.

In another case, attorneys for Charles Heard of St. Louis, charged with burglary and stealing and jailbreak from the Scott County jail on April 12, waived a preliminary hearing and was ordered by Judge Briggs to appear in Scott County Circuit Court today.

4 hurt in crash

Four persons were injured, one moderately, in a two- car accident about 1:45 p.m. Wednesday on North Main Street, according to the Department of Public Safety.

Evelyn Russell, 38, of East Prairie Route Two, was reported in s atisfactory condition this morning at Missouri Delta Community Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises. Also injured were the driver of the car in which she was riding, James Russell, 19, of East Prairie Route Two and Kathy Russell, 16, of East Prairie Route Two, both of whom were treated for cuts and bruises and released from the emergency room.

Betty Lou Ressel, 39, of Kelso, driver of the other car, said she would seek her own treatment, according to Public Safety Officer Ron Sexton, who investigated the accident.

Sexton said the accident occurred when the Ressel car made a left turn from the northbound lane into the parking lot at the Quick Shop and was struck by the southbound Russell car.

Russell was arrested for improper vehicle registration and having an out of state driver's license.

UNION SOLDIERS

By Howard Flieger

To most people, the idea that those in military uniform should join a union to negotiate the terms of their employment is so far out it is silly — but Congress is taking it seriously.

The American Federation of Government Employes — an affiliate of the AFL-CIO — put on its agenda a proposal to unionize soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen: our combined first line of military defense.

The union motivation is obvious. If its leaders could add to their quiver the right to represent those in uniform, their power in dealing with the Federal Government would make them one of the most awesome instruments of bargaining in the history of organized labor.

But it really isn't as simple as that. Fundatmentally, the issue is whether the Government or a union is going to determine and enforce the foreign policy of the U.S.

That is why 25 of the 100 United States Senators are cosponsoring a bill to ban union activity within the armed forces.

The prolabor argument is that, since we now have armed forces composed of volunteers, the present military personnel are not so much careerists as they are civilians working in uniform and, thus, are entitled to be represented by a union the same as other workers.

Those now in uniform, the argument goes, are not there because of patriotism but because they want a good job. In that circumstance, they should be allowed to organize, safeguarded by labor's traditional and court-protected right to strike.

It may sound reasonable in peacetime. But what about war? Is a union shop steward going to decide whether America's armed forces will fight in the future?

Sen. Barry Goldwater (Rep.), of Arizona, recently told the Senate:

"It stands to reason that unionizing the uniformed military personnel of this nation would not strengthen but seriously weaken America's preparedness for any eventuality, be it a threat from the Soviet Union or some other aggressor. It would destroy the military chain of command and ruin the discipline so necessary for the proper performance of military missions ... When you project a military man's right to strike into a combat situation, you come up with a ridiculous situation which cannot be expected away under any circumstances."

As a matter of act, the courts have long recognized that, even in a democracy, workers in and out of uniform are two entirely different beings. Their rights cannot be equated one with the other.

More than two decades ago, the Supreme Court said of the uniqueness of working conditions in the military:

"Its law is that of obedience. No question can be left open as to the right of command in the officer, or the duty of obedience in the soldier."

As recently as March of this year, the Supreme Court held:

"A military organization is not constructed along democratic lines and military activities cannot be governed by democratic procedures. Military institutions are necessarily far more authoritarian; military decisions cannot be made by vote of the interested participants."

This is the thing labor organizers face, once they set out to rally the armed forces under a union lable. Here is one field where the nation's security cannot tolerate authority that is divided between union and management representatives. A strike in civilian life becomes mutiny in uniform.

We have no draft. No one has to serve in the armed forces against his will. Those who volunteer to do so must accept as a condition of employment the fact that they are under the discipline of a single command.

If they don't accept that, the armed forces of the United States will be nothing.

DRAMATIC RESULTS

Adequate profit levels in basic industry, or a lack of them, determine whether a nation is to be a land of plenty or one of scarcity. Only one thing will stimulate the growth of domestic production of oil and natural gas and that is a price level within the United States sufficient to encourage exploration for, and development of, new supplies of these fuels.

Price increases of recent months have brought a more adequate profit level to the U.S. petroleum industry. The reaction has been dramatic. Exploratory gas well completions during the second quarter of 1974 were up 70 percent over the same period of 1973, and exploratory oil well completions increased by 61 percent. More exploratory and development wells were completed during April, May and June of 1974 than in the same period of any year since 1966. The total for the three-month period was 7,723. As the president of the American Petroleum Institute has observed, "It is obvious that within a short period of time, the domestic petroleum industry has responded strongly to improved price incentives. The increase in drilling and exploratory activity has taken place in spite of the steady barrage of threats from elements of Congress to roll back crude oil prices, increase the industry's already heavy tax burden, and adopt other punitive measures." It is pointed out that, if any of these proposals were to become law, investment in domestic drilling would be sharply discouraged"...at the very time when this country needs to develop its energy resources to the fullest extent possible, consistent with protection of the environment."

If adequate supplies of all forms of energy and any reasonable degree of energy independence for the United States are to be forthcoming, prices must be allowed to reflect the full costs of energy production. Those costs include a level of profit adequate to make investment in energy production companies just as attractive as investment in any other type of enterprise. There is no alternative policy or course of action that will work.

COMPUTER TROUBLES

The more we see of computers, the more we believe that sometimes they are more hindrance than help.

Computers created confusion and many errors in voting in St. Louis County last week. Of course it wasn't the fault of the machines, but of those operating them.

The same difficulties have occurred in hundreds of other cases where dependence is placed in computers alone.

It all comes back to the fact that computers are no more accurate than the people operating them, and that in many cases we'd be better off if we confined ourselves to the work of the human beings, and not add on the costly machines and their added chances for errors, which too often are almost impossible to correct.

THE GREENING OF THE CITIES

From the Los Angeles Times

For many city dwellers the ubiquitous parking lot is an unsightly carpet of asphalt rolled over a field that once bore grass, trees and other green things.

It would be nice to haul out the jackhammer and return such an unsightly manifestation of the motorized society to its pristine state. But that would require giving up a dear possession—the automobile.

So what's to be done?

One answer has been found. It is Grasscrete, a type of concrete slab that provides a firm surface for cars while leaving space for grass and other lawn coverings.

Normal automobile traffic keeps the grass cut without damage to the roots, which are protected by the raised concrete squares. Areas not exposed to traffic can be cut with ordinary lawn mowers.

It facilitates a greater use of trees. It can be used right up to the base of a tree, eliminating the need to keep solid paving away from tree trunks for watering purposes.

Developed in England, it was introduced commercially in this country in October 1974, by Home Savings and Loan Association on a 10,000 square-foot section of the firm's parking lot in Los Angeles. The company reports general satisfaction, despite a few maintenance difficulties. Since then, it has been installed in many other locations, including the University of Georgia and San Francisco State University.

There is one big drawback that is likely to inhibit the spread of Grasscrete. It costs about 2½ times more than the asphalt paving normally used for parking lots. But it shows that there is an alternative, and it could encourage other, perhaps less costly, ways to make cities more tolerable.

HOLLYWOOD IS INTERESTED

WASHINGTON— Hollywood has suddenly discovered Washington, D. C., as a source for situation comedy. Those of us who live here have known for years there was more situation comedy in the capital than in all the 50 states combined. But it was only after Watergate that the TV moguls realized how many laughs you could get out of this town.

A week doesn't go by that I don't receive a call from a television producer on the coast who is planning a situation comedy on Washington and asks for help in developing a series. I've been giving it a lot of thought, and here are just a few of the ideas that I think could work.

A CIA agent (hopefully we can get Dick Van Dyke) is having an affair with the wife of a congressman (Hope Lange?) who is miffed because she knows her husband (Don Adams?) is having an affair with his secretary (Mary Tyler Moore?)

One afternoon the congressman comes home and finds Dick in the congressman's bathrobe and Hope in her nightie. He is immediately suspicious and demands to know what Dick is doing in his bathrobe. Dick thinks fast and says, "I'm bugging your phone on orders of Henry Kissinger."

This infuriates the congressman who says he's going to call Dick before the House Ethics Committee. He hands Dick what he thinks is a subpoena, but it turns out to be a photograph of his secretary swimming nude in the Tidal Basin. This embarrasses the congressman and he begs Dick not to give the photo to The Washington Post. Just then the nosy neighbor from next door (Nancy Walker?) comes in to borrow Hope's hair dryer. She reveals that the CIA agent has been at the house every afternoon for two months.

"Then you didn't come to bug my phone?" the congressman says.

"No," replies Dick, "I've been having an affair with your wife."

"Wow," says the congressman, "what a relief! I thought the bathrobe was just a cover."

Everyone laughs at the congressman's stupid mistake. He drives off to vote on a tax bill, with Dick and Hope waving goodby to him from the door.

Another situation comedy that could work because it has an adult theme has to do with a show about a presidential candidate hears about this, he immediately goes on television and announces he's changed his mind on abortion from his previous position which, as everyone knows, was much clearer than that of his opponent.

Then he comes home and discovers that his daughter not only wasn't going to have an abotriten, but sold all her Girl Scout cookies to women who were.

"Most of them were famished," his daughter tells him.

The candidate then goes back on television and says he is reversing himself on the abortion issue and going back to his original position which was that, while he personally was against abortion, he didn't think people who wanted them should be deprived of Girl Scout cookies while they sat in the waiting room, unless Congress voted against it.

A widowed general (Tony Randall) stationed at the Pentagon accidentally stuffs his 12-year-old son's homework assignment into his briefcase and takes it to the office. The composition concerns a death ray the son has written about that can kill people from outer space.

The general's aide, a dumb colonel (Jack Klugman), submits the homework assignment to the Joint Chiefs of Staff who vote to spend $100 million developing the new weapon.

When the genreal realizes his mistake he tries to get his kid's composition back, but it's been marked TOP SECRET.

In desperation the general gives his son a report written by the Rand Corporation on the cruise missile. The kid gets an F from his teacher, because the assignment wasn't handed in on time.

To make it up to him the general takes the kid to the Super Bowl on a Lockheed private jet, provided by the company because it got the contract to build the death ray.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Scandal Uncovered in FEA

by Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Government investigators have uncovered a major scandal involving alleged bribery, sexual impropriety and misuse of Federal Energy Administration funds.

The case, which has been simmering for months under a tight lid of secrecy, reads like the plot of a Harold Robbins novel. We have pieced it together from government documents and interviews with sources close to the investigation.

It centers on the FEA's Atlanta regional office and its former director, Kenneth Dupuy, who has already been forced to resign as a result of the probe.

Dupuy and members of his Atlanta staff are now under criminal investigation for allegedly giving extra fuel allocations to gasoline distributors in return for gratuities. All deny criminal wrongdoing.

FEA investigators have established that Dupuy often used the apartment of William Corey, a gasoline and diesel fuel distributor, for trysts with a girl friend. The woman also was carrying on an affair with Corey, investigators found.

At about the same time, Corey's firm, U.S. Transport, Inc. had its gas and diesel fuel allocations substantially raised by the Atlanta office that Dupuy headed. Sources close to the case told our associate Jack Cloherty that some of the allocations were awarded to gas stations and truck stops that existed only on paper.

Dupuy has been in trouble at FEA before. In 1975, FEA administrator Frank Zarb reprimanded him for poor judgment. Dupuy had accepted transportation from an oil company to attend its Florida convention, where he stayed two days at the firm's expense.

Dupuy was also charged at that time with misusing government money. For example, he and his secretary often junketed outside his region, and a number of times he traveled to his Mexia, Tex., ranch, allegedly at government expense. In addition, investigators charged that he stuck Uncle Sam for personal expenses such as cab rides, rental cars and long distance phone calls.

Although he was reprimanded for accepting the convention trip, Dupuy was officially cleared of fiscal abuse charges. But FEA investigators on the case charged it was a whitewash.

The top brass at the agency were afraid to take on Dupuy, sources told us, because they believed he had powerful Republican political connections. Indeed, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.-S.C., had been pushing Dupuy for the No. 2 job at the agency.

The Dupuy case seemed safely buried until Rep. John Dingell, D.-Mich., the chairman of the House Energy and Power subcommittee, got wind of it.

The congressman called in FEA chief Frank Zarb and demanded that the probe be exhumed. The revived investigation, our sources say, turned up more allegations of misuse of federal funds. Dupuy, faced with another disciplinary action, decided to resign.

The continuing investigation also unearthed evidence of the Atlanta region's coziness with various oil men. At least three other Atlanta FEA officials accepted gratuities from gas and oil distributors. They included free tickets to sporting events, weekend fishing trips, free trips to oil industry conventions, and innumerable expensive lunches. One Atlanta FEA official even bought a car from an oil man at a substantial savings.

In each case, investigators found, the firms received higher allocations from the Atlanta office.

Dupuy's subordinates in Atlanta told the investigators that their boss encouraged this close relationship with the industry people they were supposed to regulate.

The results of the FEA investigation, Zarb told Cloherty, would probably be turned over to the Justice Department for possible criminal action in the next few weeks.

Footnote: Dupuy's lawyer admitted that his client used Corey's apartment, but insisted that no favors were given Corey in return. He said there was "not anything to" bribe allegations. Dupuy was not regional administrator, he claimed, when the higher fuel allocations were awarded Corey. He said that the travel abuse charges against Dupuy were "piddly junk," and that he was cleared of them. Dupuy resigned, he said, because of harassment. Corey declined comment.

HIGHFLYING BANKERS: British and French officials at the World Bank have pushed through a proposal permitting bank employes to fly the controversial Anglo-French supersonic Concorde on trips abroad. The scheme is costing the bank, supported in part with U.S. public funds, thousands of dollars in extra traveling expense.

A Concorde flight to London, for example, costs $450 more than an economy ticket on a regular airline. World Bank employes have taken the Concorde more than 175 times to such faraway places as India and Bahrain.

A bank spokesman told us the Concorde program is only a six-month experiment. But World Bank president Robert McNamara, say our sources, is dubious about the experiment, which has thus far outweighed any savings realized from the faster flights.

The original organ, constructed by the Los Angeles Organ Company, was made for and played in Festival Hall at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis; it was bought and moved to Wanamaker's where it was first played June 22, 1911. Additions since that time have more than tripled its original size and it now totals 451 stops with 30,067 pipes.

Troops digging in on the heights overlooking Boston Harbor in 1775 used shovels made by John Ames of nearby N. Easton. One hundred and seventy years later the Ames Shovel & Tool Works sent upward of a million entrenching shovels to Allied troops in World War II.

January, 1779, saw the war for independence at its lowest ebb, with the Colonists' finances in a deplorable state. Inflation was rampant. Shoes in Philadelphia were $20.00 a pair and a man's suit $2,000.00

DRAMATIC RESULTS

Adequate profit levels in basic industry, or a lack of them, determine whether a nation is to be a land of plenty or one of scarcity. Only one thing will stimulate the growth of domestic production of oil and natural gas and that is a price level within the United States sufficient to encourage exploration for, and development of, new supplies of these fuels.

Price increases of recent months have brought a more adequate profit level to the U.S. petroleum industry. The reaction has been dramatic. Exploratory gas well completions during the second quarter of 1974 were up 70 percent over the same period of 1973, and exploratory oil well completions increased by 61 percent. More exploratory and development wells were completed during April, May and June of 1974 than in the same period of any year since 1966. The total for the three-month period was 7,723. As the president of the American Petroleum Institute has observed, "It is obvious that within a short period of time, the domestic petroleum industry has responded strongly to improved price incentives. The increase in drilling and exploratory activity has taken place in spite of the steady barrage of threats from elements of Congress to roll back crude oil prices, increase the industry's already heavy tax burden, and adopt other punitive measures." It is pointed out that, if any of these proposals were to become law, investment in domestic drilling would be sharply discouraged"...at the very time when this country needs to develop its energy resources to the fullest extent possible, consistent with protection of the environment."

If adequate supplies of all forms of energy and any reasonable degree of energy independence for the United States are to be forthcoming, prices must be allowed to reflect the full costs of energy production. Those costs include a level of profit adequate to make investment in energy production companies just as attractive as investment in any other type of enterprise. There is no alternative policy or course of action that will work.

COMPUTER TROUBLES

The more we see of computers, the more we believe that sometimes they are more hindrance than help.

Computers created confusion and many errors in voting in St. Louis County last week. Of course it wasn't the fault of the machines, but of those operating them.

The same difficulties have occurred in hundreds of other cases where dependence is placed in computers alone.

It all comes back to the fact that computers are no more accurate than the people operating them, and that in many cases we'd be better off if we confined ourselves to the work of the human beings, and not add on the costly machines and their added chances for errors, which too often are almost impossible to correct.

THE GREENING OF THE CITIES

From the Los Angeles Times

For many city dwellers the ubiquitous parking lot is an unsightly carpet of asphalt rolled over a field that once bore grass, trees and other green things.

It would be nice to haul out the jackhammer and return such an unsightly manifestation of the motorized society to its pristine state. But that would require giving up a dear possession—the automobile.

So what's to be done?

One answer has been found. It is Grasscrete, a type of concrete slab that provides a firm surface for cars while leaving space for grass and other lawn coverings.

Normal automobile traffic keeps the grass cut without damage to the roots, which are protected by the raised concrete squares. Areas not exposed to traffic can be cut with ordinary lawn mowers.

It facilitates a greater use of trees. It can be used right up to the base of a tree, eliminating the need to keep solid paving away from tree trunks for watering purposes.

Developed in England, it was introduced commercially in this country in October 1974, by Home Savings and Loan Association on a 10,000 square-foot section of the firm's parking lot in Los Angeles. The company reports general satisfaction, despite a few maintenance difficulties. Since then, it has been installed in many other locations, including the University of Georgia and San Francisco State University.

There is one big drawback that is likely to inhibit the spread of Grasscrete. It costs about 2½ times more than the asphalt paving normally used for parking lots. But it shows that there is an alternative, and it could encourage other, perhaps less costly, ways to make cities more tolerable.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Scandal Uncovered in FEA

by Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Government investigators have uncovered a major scandal involving alleged bribery, sexual impropriety and misuse of Federal Energy Administration funds.

The case, which has been simmering for months under a tight lid of secrecy, reads like the plot of a Harold Robbins novel. We have pieced it together from government documents and interviews with sources close to the investigation.

It centers on the FEA's Atlanta regional office and its former director, Kenneth Dupuy, who has already been forced to resign as a result of the probe.

Dupuy and members of his Atlanta staff are now under criminal investigation for allegedly giving extra fuel allocations to gasoline distributors in return for gratuities. All deny criminal wrongdoing.

FEA investigators have established that Dupuy often used the apartment of William Corey, a gasoline and diesel fuel distributor, for trysts with a girl friend. The woman also was carrying on an affair with Corey, investigators found.

At about the same time, Corey's firm, U.S. Transport, Inc. had its gas and diesel fuel allocations substantially raised by the Atlanta office that Dupuy headed. Sources close to the case told our associate Jack Cloherty that some of the allocations were awarded to gas stations and truck stops that existed only on paper.

Dupuy has been in trouble at FEA before. In 1975, FEA administrator Frank Zarb reprimanded him for poor judgment. Dupuy had accepted transportation from an oil company to attend its Florida convention, where he stayed two days at the firm's expense.

Dupuy was also charged at that time with misusing government money. For example, he and his secretary often junketed outside his region, and a number of times he traveled to his Mexia, Tex., ranch, allegedly at government expense. In addition, investigators charged that he stuck Uncle Sam for personal expenses such as cab rides, rental cars and long distance phone calls.

Although he was reprimanded for accepting the convention trip, Dupuy was officially cleared of fiscal abuse charges. But FEA investigators on the case charged it was a whitewash.

The top brass at the agency were afraid to take on Dupuy, sources told us, because they believed he had powerful Republican political connections. Indeed, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.-S.C., had been pushing Dupuy for the No. 2 job at the agency.

The Dupuy case seemed safely buried until Rep. John Dingell, D.-Mich., the chairman of the House Energy and Power subcommittee, got wind of it.

The congressman called in FEA chief Frank Zarb and demanded that the probe be exhumed. The revived investigation, our sources say, turned up more allegations of misuse of federal funds. Dupuy, faced with another disciplinary action, decided to resign.

The continuing investigation also unearthed evidence of the Atlanta region's coziness with various oil men. At least three other Atlanta FEA officials accepted gratuities from gas and oil distributors. They included free tickets to sporting events, weekend fishing trips, free trips to oil industry conventions, and innumerable expensive lunches. One Atlanta FEA official even bought a car from an oil man at a substantial savings.

In each case, investigators found, the firms received higher allocations from the Atlanta office.

Dupuy's subordinates in Atlanta told the investigators that their boss encouraged this close relationship with the industry people they were supposed to regulate.

The results of the FEA investigation, Zarb told Cloherty, would probably be turned over to the Justice Department for possible criminal action in the next few weeks.

Footnote: Dupuy's lawyer admitted that his client used Corey's apartment, but insisted that no favors were given Corey in return. He said there was "not anything to" bribe allegations. Dupuy was not regional administrator, he claimed, when the higher fuel allocations were awarded Corey. He said that the travel abuse charges against Dupuy were "piddly junk," and that he was cleared of them. Dupuy resigned, he said, because of harassment. Corey declined comment.

HIGHFLYING BANKERS: British and French officials at the World Bank have pushed through a proposal permitting bank employes to fly the controversial Anglo-French supersonic Concorde on trips abroad. The scheme is costing the bank, supported in part with U.S. public funds, thousands of dollars in extra traveling expense.

A Concorde flight to London, for example, costs $450 more than an economy ticket on a regular airline. World Bank employes have taken the Concorde more than 175 times to such faraway places as India and Bahrain.

A bank spokesman told us the Concorde program is only a six-month experiment. But World Bank president Robert McNamara, say our sources, is dubious about the experiment, which has thus far outweighed any savings realized from the faster flights.

HOLLYWOOD IS INTERESTED

WASHINGTON— Hollywood has suddenly discovered Washington, D. C., as a source for situation comedy. Those of us who live here have known for years there was more situation comedy in the capital than in all the 50 states combined. But it was only after Watergate that the TV moguls realized how many laughs you could get out of this town.

A week doesn't go by that I don't receive a call from a television producer on the coast who is planning a situation comedy on Washington and asks for help in developing a series. I've been giving it a lot of thought, and here are just a few of the ideas that I think could work.

A CIA agent (hopefully we can get Dick Van Dyke) is having an affair with the wife of a congressman (Hope Lange?) who is miffed because she knows her husband (Don Adams?) is having an affair with his secretary (Mary Tyler Moore?)

One afternoon the congressman comes home and finds Dick in the congressman's bathrobe and Hope in her nightie. He is immediately suspicious and demands to know what Dick is doing in his bathrobe. Dick thinks fast and says, "I'm bugging your phone on orders of Henry Kissinger."

This infuriates the congressman who says he's going to call Dick before the House Ethics Committee. He hands Dick what he thinks is a subpoena, but it turns out to be a photograph of his secretary swimming nude in the Tidal Basin. This embarrasses the congressman and he begs Dick not to give the photo to The Washington Post. Just then the nosy neighbor from next door (Nancy Walker?) comes in to borrow Hope's hair dryer. She reveals that the CIA agent has been at the house every afternoon for two months.

"Then you didn't come to bug my phone?" the congressman says.

"No," replies Dick, "I've been having an affair with your wife."

"Wow," says the congressman, "what a relief! I thought the bathrobe was just a cover."

Everyone laughs at the congressman's stupid mistake. He drives off to vote on a tax bill, with Dick and Hope waving goodby to him from the door.

Another situation comedy that could work because it has an adult theme has to do with a show about a presidential candidate hears about this, he immediately goes on television and announces he's changed his mind on abortion from his previous position which, as everyone knows, was much clearer than that of his opponent.

Then he comes home and discovers that his daughter not only wasn't going to have an abotriton, but sold all her Girl Scout cookies to women who were.

"Most of them were famished," his daughter tells him.

The candidate then goes back on television and says he is reversing himself on the abortion issue and going back to his original position which was that, while he personally was against abortion, he didn't think people who wanted them should be deprived of Girl Scout cookies while they sat in the waiting room, unless Congress voted against it.

A widowed general (Tony Randall) stationed at the Pentagon accidentally stuffs his 12-year-old son's homework assignment into his briefcase and takes it to the office. The composition concerns a death ray the son has written about that can kill people from outer space.

The general's aide, a dumb colonel (Jack Klugman), submits the homework assignment to the Joint Chiefs of Staff who vote to spend $100 million developing the new weapon.

When the genreal realizes his mistake he tries to get his kid's composition back, but it's been marked TOP SECRET.

In desperation the general gives his son a report written by the Rand Corporation on the cruise missile. The kid gets an F from his teacher, because the assignment wasn't handed in on time.

To make it up to him the general takes the kid to the Super Bowl on a Lockheed private jet, provided by the company because it got the contract to build the death ray.

Andrea Harber is selected to College Chamber Choir

FAYETTE— Andrea Jane Harber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harber of 747 N. Ranney St., Sikeston, has been selected by audition for membership in the Central Methodist College Chamber Choir of 40 voices.

Miss Harber, a graduate of Sikeston High School, is a senior at Central Methodist College.

The chamber choir sings alternate Sundays at Linn United Methodist Church on the college campus. It is open to any student at Central Methodist. Some of its members also participate in the college band.

The group gives concerts in nearby towns at churches, schools and for other organizations. It will also combine with several other musical groups to present the annual Christmas oratorio.

Dr. L. Wesley Miller, professor of voice in Swinney Conservatory of Central Methodist College, directs the chamber choir.

SeMo U. to sponsor College Day program to be held Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU— About 300 area high school juniors and seniors will be special guests Saturday at Southeast Missouri State University as the Student Government Association sponsors its annual College Day program.

Purpose of the day is to acquaint the high schoolers with both the academic and extracurricular "sides" of the university.

The day's activities will begin at 9:45 a.m. with registration in the University Center and will climax at 8 p.m. with the football game at Houck Stadium between Southeast Missouri State and the University of Evansville.

In between, the students will talk with representatives from various academic departments and student organizations that morning and administrative personnel that afternoon. Also on the afternoon schedule are a multi-media presentation in Kent Libray and campus tours.

The students will be on their own for lunch. The snack bar and cafeteria in the University Center will be open.

Free football taickets will be distributed during registration.

"We've expanded and revised the program this year so the kids can find out more about the academics of the university," said the co-chairman of the event, Miss Susan Rice of Kennett Route One, a senior majoring in special education.

Besides providing representatives to talk with the campus visitors, student organizations and some academic departments will also set up exhibits depicting their interests and activities.

It is also probable that the high school students will do some shopping at Thieves Day, an activity which will be going on in the University Center simultaneously with College Day.

Failure-to-thrive infants come from white middle class

BOSTON (AP) — Billy was a healthy seven pounds at birth. He was an active baby, smiling and cooing with every playful poke to his fat, pink stomach.

One month later, Billy was comatose, emaciated and dying. He shrank from any contact with the world around him and barely tipped the scale at four pounds.

After weeks of tests, doctors concluded there was nothing medically wrong with Billy. He was one of a growing number of infants who fail to thrive at home.

Something in the bond that links parent to child went awry. Without maternal love to nourish them, these babies start to feed on themselves.

"Holding these babies is like picking up a rag doll. They refuse to respond to you," said Dr. Milt Kotelchuck, research director of family development at Children's Hospital.

He is one of three physicians who have gathered information about this disorder, one of the most mysterious social illnesses of pediatrics.

Dr. Eli H. Newberger, Dr. Daniel Rosen and Kotelchuck devised a questionnaire to pinpoint the characteristics of failure-to-thrive infants and their parents.

"We saw a picture of a mother who was isolated, stuck at home with this baby she was almost afraid of because it didn't act normally. She was at the end of her rope," Rosen said.

A failure-to-thrive child "looks just like these pictures of the starving Biafrans,' one physician said. The infant is far below normal in growth, height and weight — a "deprivational dwarf."

Because of its severe malnutrition, the infant is listless and passive. The child refuses to eat despite a mother's desperate efforts to make her child gain weight.

"If these parents didn't care about their kids they'd let them die at home instead of taking them to a pediatrician or hospital," Newberger pointed out. "The parents are looking for help, not only for their child but for themselves."

The doctors examined 368 children admitted to the hospital's in-patient services. Forty-two cases were diagnosed as failure to thrive because of the inability to gain weight.

Of those 42 cases, 81 per cent were under 18 months of age, 69 per cent were white, 33 per cent were from welfare families and 69 per cent were male.

From their findings, doctors concluded that these babies — unlike many cases of neglect or abuse that often occur in low-income neighborhoods — were the products of white middle-class families.

Besides logging the characteristics of the children, doctors developed an interview for the mother, focusing on housing, marital well-being, employment, child care and family problems.

What emerged was an anxious, over-concerned parent who was frightened of her child and her surroundings.

The mothers shared high levels of stress. They tended to be less educated than the fathers and saw their neighborhoods as unfriendly, even hostile. Rarely did the mother develop her own life or keep in contact with her own family.

Sometimes a simple question started them on an avalanche of emotion that laid bare their hidden feelings.

"I can't relate to the kid." "He's a difficult child." "He just isn't happy." "He doesn't like to eat what I give him." "It's not my fault he looks the way he does." "I'm a good mother."

Telling a mother that her child is not flourishing at home is placing blame on her, even when the doctors are trying to help her.

As one distraught mother told doctors, "When I hear the term 'failure to thrive,' all I hear is the word, 'failure.'"

Doctors agree that the various theories pointing to a lack of interaction — a "failed mutuality" — between mother and child as the cause of the condition takes a punitive attitude by placing blame on an already guilt-ridden parent.

"The purpose of our questionnaire is to ask questions that's going to lead the mother to the problem. You need to keep in mind one's ethical posture and role — be sympathetic, nonaccusing, nonjudgmental," Kotelchuck said.

Many of the mothers were maternally retarded, ignorant about baby care. They had not set up a routine for their child and often treated the babies like dolls or pets.

Top 40 hits used to teach reading

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It won't be Dick and Jane helping youngsters learn to read in some classrooms this fall, but rock 'n' rollers like Fleetwood Mac, Paul Simon and the Doobie Brothers.

The pounding reverberations will be used to teach the basics of reading. Taking the place of traditional primers will be the hip lyrics of contemporary pop music performers, from Simon to Harry Chapin to The Four Tops.

A program called HITS — High Interest Teaching Systems — is bringing the Top 40 into the classroom in the hope of motivating students whose reading skills are structurally weak.

"It works great, it's a really nice approach," said Natalie Lucas, a special education instructor at Tustin High School in Orange County. "I think it works so well because the kids love it."

County library has new books

CHARLESTON — The Mississippi County Library has several new books to offer its patrons.

Fiction titles include: "The Bicentennial Man and Other Stories," by Isaac Asimov; "The Storm Witch," by Elizabeth Barr; "A Death in the Life" by Dorothy Davis; "Deus Irae" by Philip Dick; "Long Trail North" by Kelly P. Gast; "Last Chance" by Rona Jaffe; "Long Way to Texas" by Lee McElroy; Briganza Pursuit" by Sarah Nolan; "Sweetwater" by Jean Rikhoff; "Tangent Objective" by Lawrence Sanders; "Best Place to Be" by Helen Van Slyke; and "The Navigator" by Morris West.

New works of non-fiction are: "Born Again" by Charles W. Colson, 248.206; "Strickly Speaking" by Edwin Newman, 301.21; "Passages: Predictable Crises of Adult Life" by Gail Sheehy, 301.434; "Longest Cave" by Roger W. Brucker, 551.44; "World of the Honeybee" by Colin Butler, 595.799; "Practical Guide to Impractical Pets" by Emile Dolesek;

"History of American Painting" by Ivan Bennett, 759.1; "Will Rogers Scrapbook," Bryan Sterling, editor, 791.092; "The Great Garbo" by Robert Payne, 791.43; "A Book of Faith" by Elizabeth Goudge, 808.8; "The Great War and Modern Memory" by Paul Fussell, 820.93; "Lyndon Johnson and the American Dream" by Doris Kearns, B-J; "Edge of the Wilderness; by Frank Schoonover, 971; and "New Madrid Earthquakes of 1811 - 1812" by James Penick Jr., 977.898.

British comedienne lacks funds to pay medical bills

NEW YORK (AP) — Beatrice Lillie, the British comedienne whose trans-Atlantic career on stage, film and television spanned more than a half century, is under round-the-clock nursing in her Manhattan apartment and running out of money.

The 78-year-old Miss Lillie, who in private life is Lady Peel, widow of Sir Robert Peel, suffered a stroke recently. Her physician, Dr. Robert Beekman, said she also is suffering from cataracts.

Her sad straits were described Wednesday in Manhattan Supreme Court as her longtime manager and producer, John Phillip Huck, of Lyme, Conn., petitioned the court to appoint a conservator for her estate.

Huck said the move was necessary to permit the sale of Miss Lillie's $75,000 cooperative apartment overlooking the East River, her jewels and other assets to pay her medical bills.

Huck said her only source of income is a trust fund that provides $47,000 a year, and her expenses, including nursing and other medical costs, run about $82,000 a year.

He said he hopes to arrange for Lady Peel's return to England before the end of the year because her medical expenses would be far less there.

Huck said the apartment contains a 40-year accumulation of memorabilia associated with a theatrical career in which Miss Lillie captivated audiences with her elegantly absurd routines.

FDA bans food dyes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration today banned the artificial colors used to make maraschino cherries red and jelly beans and licorice black, saying their safety is questionable.

Laboratory tests with dogs uggest that food dye called Red. No. 4 may cause urinary bladder polyps and atrophy of the adrenal glands, the FDA said. Furthermore, there is no reliable testing method to assure that the color carbon black does not contain a cancer-causing byproduct, the agency said.

The FDA announced it also will ban 10 other color additives, approved for use only in cosmetics, in 30 days, that it will permanently approve 20 other colors for use only in external drugs and cosmetics by the year's end and give industry more time to conduct further safety testing of 52 other colors, three of them in food.

Richard Ronk, who heads the FDA's color additives division, said the carbon black ban signals an end to black jelly beans and licorice.

It was unclear whether the Red No. 4 ban would spell the same fate for red maraschino cherries or whether another additive can be used.

The color does not influence the flavor of cherries, which also are marketed in green and in their natural yellow color after processing.

Ann Landers

Woman told to get divorce

Dear Ann Landers: You often advise people with marital problems, "See your clergyman," of, "See your lawyer." Well, I've seen both and am more confused than ever.

I left my second husband (after only a few months) because our marriage was terrible, except for the sex, which was fantastic. I decided I needed more than that.

My lawyer says I am foolish not to get a divorce because (a) under our state's community property laws I could become responsible for my husband's debts (he is self-employed and in a vulnerable business), (b) he is much older than I so there's a chance he could become disabled and I would have to take care of him for the rest of his life, (c) if I shoul die first he could possibly inherit a large share of my estate. This would be a lot of money if my parents should pre-decease me. (The money rightfully should go to my children.)

My clergyman says, "Don't divorce him. You would be a two-time loser and it would look very bad for our (Protestant) church."

What do YOU say, Ann? I'm going to take your advice. -- Mid-West Teeter Totter

Dear Mid: Listen to your lawyer. One of the poorest reasons for remaining legally married is concern over how a divorce would look to others. And if you knew how many people are doing just that, your eyeballs would pop.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been following the debate in your column about doctors who "bury their mistakes," protected by their colleagues, etc.

I'm a laboratory technician and have worked in a hospital for 11 years. This is a small medical center but it is growing rapidly. The employees here are intelligent, conscientious people. The doctors are mainly interested in the welfare of the patients. However, I can tell you that a fair number of "mistakes" have been buried in this place.

Surgeons have cut arteries, perforated intestines and screwed up in assorted and unbelievable ways. The erring surgeons were never censured. What is worse is that the families of the patients never knew the truth. "Complications" can cover just about any mistake.

Recently we got rid of a doctor who had been alcoholic for at least 15 years. How many patients died because of his faulty judgment, no one will ever know. He was brilliant and kind, but when he was boozed up he did a lot of damage.

We had another doctor (recently deceased) who was 89 years old. He was senile -- could never remember where he parked his car and repeatedly called his patients by the wrong name. He had a loyal following of devotees who adored him, but I wouldn't let him treat my dog.

I hope this letter doesn't frighten your readers too badly. In closing let me reassure them that there are always some people who DO give a damn and we will protect the best interests of the patients no matter what. -- Penna Tech

Dear Tech: I hope your letter will encourage hospital personnel in every city on the globe to speak out against incompetence, alcoholism, senility -- any condition that threatens the welfare of the patient. It is the moral obligation of all who see such goings-on to get rid of the klinkers -- whether they are physicians, nurses or lab technicians.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

My clergyman says, "Don't divorce him. You would be a two-time loser and it would look very bad for our (Protestant) church."

What do YOU say, Ann? I'm going to take your advice. -- Mid-West Teeter Totter

Dear Mid: Listen to your lawyer. One of the poorest reasons for remaining legally married is concern over how a divorce would look to others. And if you knew how many people are doing just that, your eyeballs would pop.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been following the debate in your column about doctors who "bury their mistakes," protected by their colleagues, etc.

I'm a laboratory technician and have worked in a hospital for 11 years. This is a small medical center but it is growing rapidly. The employees here are intelligent, conscientious people. The doctors are mainly interested in the welfare of the patients. However, I can tell you that a fair number of "mistakes" have been buried in this place.

Surgeons have cut arteries, perforated intestines and screwed up in assorted and unbelievable ways. The erring surgeons were never censured. What is worse is that the families of the patients never knew the truth. "Complications" can cover just about any mistake.

Recently we got rid of a doctor who had been alcoholic for at least 15 years. How many patients died because of his faulty judgment, no one will ever know. He was brilliant and kind, but when he was boozed up he did a lot of damage.

We had another doctor (recently deceased) who was 80 years old. He was senile -- could never remember where he parked his car and repeatedly called his patients by the wrong name. He had a loyal following of devotees who adored him, but I wouldn't let him treat my dog.

I hope this letter doesn't frighten your readers too badly. In closing let me reassure them that there are always some people who DO give a damn and we will protect the best interests of the patients no matter what. -- Penna Tech

Dear Tech: I hope your letter will encourage hospital personnel in every city on the globe to speak out against incompetence, alcoholism, senility -- any condition that threatens the welfare of the patient. It is the moral obligation of all who see such goings-on to get rid of the klinkers -- whether they are physicians, nurses or lab technicians.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Editor,

I am sure my friends will be interested to know, that the material for two of my planned books is about together. BOOK ONE is of sermons, all of which were preached from Centenary's pulpit, and will likely be titled "YOU HAD BETTER BELIEVE IT -- JESUS IS THE ANSWER!" which is the subject of the lead sermon. The eighteen to twenty sermons will come from the following list. Those omitted from this book will go into a second book to follow, according to my publishers.

You Had Better Believe It — Jesus Is The Answer
The Halo Around the Hand
When Jonahs Make Whales Sick
Why You Tick The Way You Do
Got The Pill Bottle Blues?
It's A Brand New Ballgame
You HAD A Past, You HAVE A Future
Saint Mephibosheth! Ever Heard Of Him?
An Idea Whose Time Has Come
Is This Charge Or Cash?
Give Us Back Some of Our Tensions
How To Make Ends Meet That Won't
Sinners Are Getting Mighty Hard To Find
Do You Have To Be First In The Rat Race?
When You Can Almost Prove God Is Not Fair
Is Anything Sure Or Is The Game Fixed?
When Will What Will Be Be?
How Thinkative Are You?
Does Squaresville Exist Anymore?
This Is A Two Plus Two Makes Four Universe, You Know!
It's A Feat If You Can Do It — Bite Into Religion Without Swallowing It
When Jonahs Swallow Whales
Retreating Forward or Advancing Backward?
When You Are Out Of Gas But Keep Going
Keep Your Head, You May Need It Sometimes
Jesus Did Not Say "I Have Come To Explain The Universe"
How To Live on Top of Your Worries
Don't Let This Sermon Open Your Mind
When It Is No Longer A Sin To Sin
Happiness May Be Thought, Sought And Caught, But Not Bought
Did You Say Or Did You Not Say What I Said You Said?
We Ought To Start Criticizing The Critics
I'm Getting Old Enough To See That Old Age Ain't For Sissies
The Conclusive Miracles Are the Cemetery Miracles
The Couch Of The Psychiatrist Or The Altar Of The Church
When You Are So Far Down You Have To Look Up To Bottom
The Man Who Picketed God And Got Everything He Bargained For
A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Bi-Centennial

The other book will be a "HOW TO" type for ministers, church staffers and lay administrative laity named: "ONE MOD-MINISTER'S METHODS AND MATERIALS" -- a technique and TOOL IDEA KIT. It will contain ten chapters with sub-divisions, or what will be designated "kit compartments" -- advertising, counseling (pastoral), evangelism, finances, letters and promotions, programs (miscellaneous), questionnaires and records, sermon subjects (selecting and publicizing), social action ministries, tools and miscellaneous cultivation techniques. In simple terms, a compilation of effective methods and materials, publicity and promotions, techniques and tools I developed and adapted for successful use in my last pastorate of twelve years at the Centenary Church of St. Louis and three previous pastorates.

Editor,

I am sure my friends will be interested to know, that the material for two of my planned books is about together. BOOK ONE is of sermons, all of which were preached from Centenary's pulpit, and will likely be titled "YOU HAD BETTER BELIEVE IT --JESUS IS THE ANSWER!" which is the subject of the lead sermon. The eighteen to twenty sermons will come from the following list. Those omitted from this book will go into a second book to follow, according to my publishers.

You Had Better Believe It — Jesus Is The Answer
The Halo Around the Hand
When Jonahs Make Whales Sick
Why You Tick The Way You Do
Got The Pill Bottle Blues?
It's A Brand New Ballgame
You HAD A Past, You HAVE A Future
Saint Mephibosheth! Ever Heard Of Him?
An Idea Whose Time Has Come
Is This Charge Or Cash?
Give Us Back Some of Our Tensions
How To Make Ends Meet That Won't
Sinners Are Getting Mighty Hard To Find
Do You Have To Be First In The Rat Race?
When You Can Almost Prove God Is Not Fair
Is Anything Sure Or Is The Game Fixed?
When Will What Will Be Be?
How Thinkative Are You?
Does Squaresville Exist Anymore?
This Is A Two Plus Two Makes Four Universe, You Know!
It's A Feat If You Can Do It — Bite Into Religion Without Swallowing It
When Jonahs Swallow Whales
Retreating Forward or Advancing Backward?
When You Are Out Of Gas But Keep Going
Keep Your Head, You May Need It Sometimes
Jesus Did Not Say "I Have Come To Explain The Universe"
How To Live on Top of Your Worries
Don't Let This Sermon Open Your Mind
When It Is No Longer A Sin To Sin
Happiness May Be Thought, Sought And Caught, But Not Bought
Did You Say Or Did You Not Say What I Said You Said?
We Ought To Start Criticizing The Critics
I'm Getting Old Enough To See That Old Age Ain't For Sissies
The Conclusive Miracles Are the Cemetery Miracles
The Couch Of The Psychiatrist Or The Altar Of The Church
When You Are So Far Down You Have To Look Up To Bottom
The Man Who Picketed God And Got Everything He Bargained For
A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Bi-Centennial

The other book will be a "HOW TO" type for ministers, church staffers and key administrative laity named : "ONE MOD-MINISTER'S METHODS AND MATERIALS" --- a technique and TOOL IDEA KIT. It will contain ten chapters with sub-divisonss, or what will be designated "kit compartments" -- advertising, counseling (pastoral), evangelism, finances, letters and promotions, programs (miscellaneous), questionnaires and records, sermon subjects (selecting and publicizing), social action ministries, tools and miscellaneous cultivation techniques. In simple terms, a compilation of effective methods and materials, publicity and promotions, techniques and tools I developed and adapted for successful use in my last pastorate of twelve years at the Centenary Church of St. Louis and three previous pastorates.

Attending the party were: her parents; her brothers, Jim and Frank Brown; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Glueck of Vanduser and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Brown of Blodgett.

Other guests were Mrs. Virginia Reudrick and children of Vanduser and Mr. and Mrs. Don Brown and Mr. and Mrs. James Hooper and Debbie of Morley.

Campaign is launched against food, drug tax abolishment

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A hastily formed committee launched a campaign today against what it called the ill-conceived and misguided proposal to abolish sales taxes on food and prescription drugs in Missouri.

"There is absolutely no way for state and local services to withstand cutbacks to the extent of $180 million a year," said Robert M. White II. "That simply is not realistic. We must protect the poor and needy who would be hurt the most."

White is editor and publisher of the Mexico (Mo.) Evening Ledger and chairman of an organization called Concerned Missourians Against Food and Drug Amendment. The question will come up for a vote Nov. 2 in the form of a constitutional amendment as the result of a petition campaign.

With White at the news conference were Mayor John H. Poelker of St. Louis and Mayor Charles B. Wheeler of Kansas City. They expressed particular concern at the estimated $40 million in revenues which would be lost by the 160 municipalities that levy sales taxes.

In the case of St. Louis, the money goes to the bistate transportation system, and in Kansas City it goes for schools and transit.

Poelker called the proposal "a cruel hoax." He said the savings to poor people would be relatively small and services which would have to be cut because of the loss in revenue would be mostly in health, hospitalization, sanitation and others which are of most benefit to the poor.

Wheeler said all of those involved in the committee's work recognize the need for tax reform but it should be accomplished without such drastic action as the proposed amendment.

Wheeler noted that state Auditor George Lehr has supported the idea as a kind of shock treatment for the tax set-up in Missouri and said: "We have had enough shock treatment in government these days."

White said it would be the strategy of the committee to try to get across to the people of Missouri that the proposal is full of fallacies.

"It is frightening to think what it could do to the public schools of Missouri," he said. "It is a cheap shot for votes by some politicians."

White said he did not have detailed knowledge about those who are behind the proposal and he said he would like to know a lot more about "the people behind this obviously irresponsible solution."

Wheeler called it a "pie in the sky" approach.

When asked about their own ideas on tax reforms, Wheeler and Poelker advocated some kind of a circuit-breaker system on sales taxes similar to the one which already gives a tax break to low-income people on the property taxes and house rent they pay.

White used figures compiled by the Missouri Municipal League, based on an estimate that one-fourth of sales tax revenue comes from food and prescription drugs, to show what the municipalities with sales taxes stand to lose in their 1978-79 budget years.

Legislative priorities are discussed with area judges

BENTON — Sue Marsch of Jefferson City, director of member services for the Missouri Association of Counties (MAC) addressed the Southeast Missouri County Judges Association Wednesday at a gathering in the Scott County Courthouse.

Miss Marsch informed the group, which represented the counties of Washington, St. Francois, Perry, Cape Girardeau, Mississippi and Scott, about matters given priority by the MAC legislative committee for presentation to the 1977 General Assembly.

Several of the items given priority were: state revenue sharing; an increase in assessed valuation requirements for counties to become second class from $70 million to $125 million; work for local control; home rule charter for all counties; reassessment of real property with all political subdivisions to pay share of costs; and reimbursement of boarding costs for incarcerated prisoners other than just food and food services.

October Special Security checks to be delivered two days earlier

Social Security checks, which are normally delivered on the third day of the month, will be delivered the first day of October since the third falls on Sunday, Don Hart, manager of the Social Security branch office in Sikeston, has announced.

The Friday check delivery is a new policy, Hart said. Social Security checks will be delivered on a Friday whenever the third falls on a Saturday or Sunday. He said the same schedule will apply to beneficiaries who have their Social Security checks deposited directly in a bank or other financial institution.

Formerly, checks were delivered on Saturday when the normal delivery date fell on Sunday, but many people had to wait until Monday to cash the checks.

Social Security pays monthly retirement, disability and survivors benefit to eligible workers and their families. The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled.

$35,000 personal injury suit is filed in court

BENTON — A $35,000 personal injury suit was filed by June Pitchie against Ira Shuffitt Monday in Scott County Circuit Court.

The suit states that Ira Shuffit committed common assault against the Pitchie woman Jan. 12 while she was at Shuffit's Nursing Home No. 2 in Sikeston by taking his hand and pushing her into a chair and refusing to allow her to leave the premises.

As a result of the act, which the suit alleges was intentional and malicious, it states that the plaintiff suffered a severe, permanent and disabling injury to her back and aggravation of a pre-arthritic condition that is permanent and progressive and has caused much pain an anxiety of mind and body and an inability to sleep.

The suit states that as a result of the injuries she has suffered loss of income through salary and wages and has been forced to expend large sums of money for medical expenses which will continue in the future.

The suit seeks a judgment of $10,000 to compensate her injuries and $25,000 as punitive damages.

Commenting on reports that his father is very tired from the heavy campaign schedule, young Carter said his father has taken the past two days off for relaxing at the family home in Plains, Ga., and should be rested up for tonight.

He told a crowd of about 50 supporters outside the campaign headquarters that his father gives his unqualified support to Warren Hearnes, Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Stuart Symington.

He then walked down to the Cotton Carnival where he gave a short talk to the crowd and then walked through the midway shaking hands.

He had the opportunity to win a duck at one booth, by tossing a ring over its head, but missed on all three tries. He said he did not really want the duck anyway.

He also took time to take a few swings with a sledge hammer at an old automobile at a car smashing booth. The car has the names Ford painted on one side and Carter on the other.

Young Carter, of course, took the swings at the Ford side of the car.

Ben Franklin was quoted as saying, "Genius without education is like silver in the mine."

place in Philadelphia's Walnut Street Theater. There are 280 seats in the theater for the general public. But the television audience is expected to top 100 million. The debates are being carried by all four national networks.

Carter had said during the primary campaign that he would like to debate his Republican opponent. Then Ford grabbed the initiative during his acceptance speech at the GOP convention, issuing a challenge to Carter to debate him. The applause at Kansas City had barely died when Carter issued a statement agreeing to a serces of debates.

The League of Women Voters agreed to sponsor the debates, leaving them open for coverage by broadcast networks without the need to grant equal air time to other candidates.

Representatives of former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, an independent candidate for president, and Tom Anderson, the American party nominee, went to court with claims the arrangements were aimed at evading the equal time provisions of federal communications law.

McCarthy wants a court order forcing the league to include him. Anderson wants the debate halted. U.S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson rejected their petitions. They have appealed his decision.

The second debate, set for Oct. 6, will cover foreign policy and national security. The third, on Oct. 22, will have no subject limitation.

During the week between the second and third presidential debates, the two vice presidential candiates will debate.

Edwin Newman of NBC will serve as moderator of the first presidential debate. On the three-member panel of questioners will be James P. Gannon of the Wall Street Journal, Elizabeth Drew of the New Yorker and Frank Reynolds of ABC.

The flip of a coin determined that the first question will be directed at Carter. They will alternate between candidates from then on.

The candidates will have three minutes to answer a question. The panel then may ask one followup question, which the candidate has two minutes to answer. His opponent then has two minutes for his comment.

Then each man has three minutes for a closing statement, with the candidate who was asked the first question going first.

examination of the house and that no other bullets were found nor did he see a weapon at the scene.

On cross examination, Clayton stated he first saw Mrs. Parks on the night of the shooting after she had been taken to the county jail in New Madrid.

Asked by the defense counsel to describe how the defendant looked when he saw her at the jail, Clayton said her words were slurred and that he would say she was intoxicated. He said that he had not seen any bruises on the woman but that her hair was in disarray.

Her attorney stated that when he had seen Mrs. Parks the following day in Magistrate Court that her face was bruised and one eye was blackened.

Clayton said that at the time he saw Mrs. Parks she was not too upset, but she had cried a little. He said he didn't see any blood on her and that her clothing was not ripped.

Wheatley testified on direct examination that Wood and Mrs. Parks were living together in the house rented by Wood and that he had a sleeping room rented in the house. On the day of the shooting he said he had returned to the house about 4 or 5 p.m., and had gone to sleep in his room. He said he had awakened about 8 p.m. and was sitting in the kitchen looking at a magazine when Wood came in the back door.

Wheatley stated Wood walked past him and that he heard a shot. A door to the bedroom was open, according to Wheatley, and when he looked up, he saw Mrs. Parks sitting on the side of the bed with a rifle.

He said he did not pay any attention to Wood as Wood passed by him in the kitchen, and could not say what his condition was, but added that he had been told that Wood had been seen staggering down the street.

When Wood was shot and fell beside Wheatley, he said he went out the back door to report it to the police.

According to Wheatley's testimony during cross examination, he had been living in the house for three or four months, and that prior to then he and Wood had lived together for three or four years. Wheatley said the defendant had been living with Wood about nine months.

Wheatley told of being gone most of the day and said when he went into the kitchen about 8 p.m. he did not know at that time whether the woman was in the house or did not know that Wood was gone.

He stated that he had seen Wood slap the woman around two or three times, but could not state when he last saw Wood slap her, adding that he wasn't at home all the time. He said he hadn't seen them fight on the day of the shooting.

Further testifying Wheatley said that Wood drank whisky and beer, and that he was pretty sure Wood had a drink on the morning of the shooting. He said he didn't know what had happened between Wood and the woman that day and could not say whether she was drunk.

He claimed that on the day of the shooting he had been drinking at a neighbor's house and had drunk about a six-pack of beer and a half pint of whisky.

According to Wheatley, the rifle belonged to Wood, but that he thought the woman had bought it and given it to Wood. He stated the three of them often went over to the river and shot the rifle, but could not remember whether they had been shooting that day. He had first stated that the three had been over to the river shooting the rifle that morning and that Mrs. Parks had shot the gun a couple of times.

Wheatley testified that he had never heard Wood threaten the woman; never heard her threaten Wood and had never seen her fight back at Wood.

He stated at the time of the shooting he had not seen the woman fire the rifle, but when he heard the shot he looked up and saw her on the bed with the rifle, about a distance of four or five feet from Wood.

Wheatley said that when Wood walked by him in the kitchen, before the shooting,, he didn't pay any attention to Wood, and that he didn't hear Wood say a word, or didn't hear Mrs. Parks say anything.

Wingo testified that he knew Wheatley and Wood prior to the shooting but that he had never met the defendant before. He stated he knew the men drank. Asked by defense counsel if the men could be regarded as "winos", Wingo replied they could be commonly referred to as that.

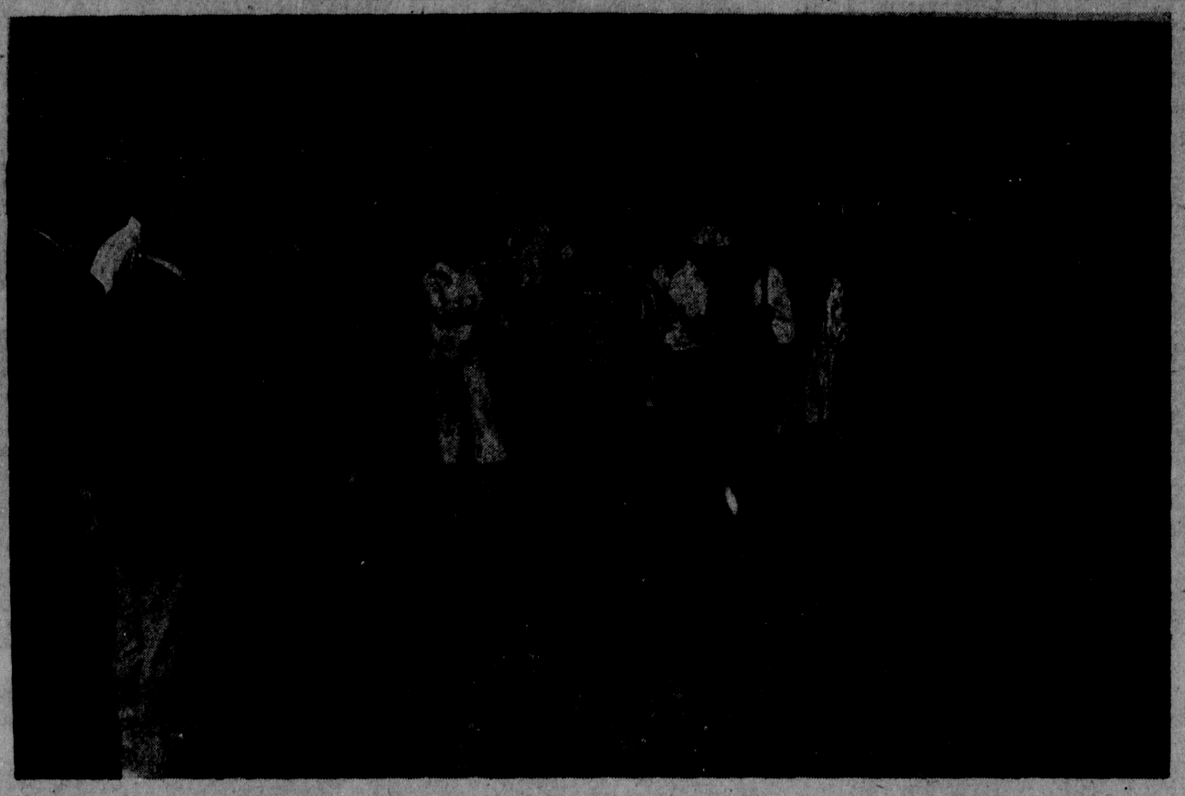
Bond worker to be featured in 'Playboy'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jimmy Carter is not the only political canddate being questioned about what's in Playboy magazine.

Geoffrey McCarron, campaign manager for Gov. Christopher S. Bond's re-election drive, said his office has received inquiries regarding Patti McGuire, a non-salaried volunteer campaign worker in Bond's St. Louis office who will be featured next month in the magazine.

"This is not Patti's first campaign," McCarron said. "In 1972 she was Florissant Valley Community College student coordinator for Bond, and she did a good job."

"I would hope that Patti's personal life and her association with Playboy will not be detrimental to her effectiveness as a voluneteer worker," McCarron said.



Ground breaking for new workshop is held

A groundbreaking ceremony for the new Scott County Community Sheltered Workshop was held Wednesday morning at the site selected for construction on North West Street. Participating in the ceremony, from left, are Fred Glover; two unidentified men; Lenny Whitworth Jr. and Roy Marks of Sikeston; Pearline Thurman of East Prairie; Willard Brown of Dexter; Freda King of Morley; two unidentified men; workshop manager B. W. Gunn of Sikeston; unidentified man; Joe Pickard of Charleston; David Grooms of Sikeston; Mrs. Mary Moore of East Prairie; Bill Pennington of Chaffee; Bobby Warff of Lilbourn; John Henderson of Bloomfield; Fred Danner and Marietta Whitworth of Sikeston; George Pendergrast of Scott City, president of the county workshop board of directors, and the Rev. Edward Watson of Sikeston, president of the Sheltered Workshop board of directors.

Hearnes, Danforth answer state municipal government's questions

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The two candidates for the U.S. Senate from Missouri sat side-by-side and for more than an hour answered questions from representatives of the state's municipal governments today. They agreed that some way must be found to keep federal controls from interfering with local decisions.

"Our country must find a sensible balance between the national and local roles," said Warren E. Hearnes, the former governor who is the Democratic nominee.

"Otherwise, we may end up with both more federal controls and more local problems," Hearnes said.

In answer to a question, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, the Republican candidate, said Congress has the power "to, restrain and oversee the federal bureaucracy, but they don't exercise that authority which they already have."

The two candidates appeared before a session of the annual meeting of the Missouri Municipal League, made short opening statements and then in turn answered questions propounded by four municipal officials and members of the audience.

The two candidates were in general agreement on many of the issues put to them.

Mayor Howard C. Tooke of Cape Girardeau asked a two-pronged question about whether federal money should be withheld when local governments do not meet federal land planning requirements. The responses:

Hearnes: "No. No."

Danforth: "Ditto."

An issue on which they took exactly opposite stands was completion of the Meramec Dam southwest of St. Louis.

"It just does not make any sense," Danforth said. "Its cost cannot be justified. One thing the federal government has got to start doing is to say 'no,' and this is a chance for it to say no to $100 million."

There was big applause.

"What I want to know is where all you people were in 1967 and 1968," Hearnes said.

He noted there were campaigns in both major St. Louis newspapers at that time which insisted the 2.5 million people of the area needed Meramec as a recreational facility and that there were extensive hearings on it.

"Everyone was united for it except the canoe club," Hearnes said. "I gave my approval to it. Gov. Bond, my successor, gave his approval. Both United States senators gave their approval. The congressman from the area gave his approval.

Baker says state would need additional lawyers to enforce antitrust laws

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two additional lawyers would be needed in the attorney general's office to help adequately enforce Missouri's antitrust laws, James Baker, Democratic candidate for that office, says.

Baker, in a Jefferson City news conference Wednesday, said the revenue the two lawyers would generate in fines and court settlements would more than enough make up for their salaries.

The state representatative from Kansas City released a 10-point position paper on consumer affairs, detailing seven bills he would support in the legislature and three laws he would more vigorously enforce if elected.

In antitrust matters, Baker said, "The present attorney general's office has prosecuted few cases."

"Vigorous enforcement is called for and is what I pledge," he said. He also promised a stricter enforcement of the state's nursing home laws and that the attorney general's office would intervene in major utility rate cases before the Public Service Commission.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth and the man seeking to succeed him, John Ashcroft, an assistant attorney general, have pointed to that office's enforcement of the antitrust laws as one of their accomplishments.

Danforth has said it was his office's work with the legislature which gained passage of the state's new antitrust law. During the past few months, the state has initiated antitrust cases in the areas of milk pricing, insurance bought by municipalities, mobile home parks and most recently in barber activities.

Among the bills which Baker said he would support were an automobile truth in repair bill and regulation of the sale of credit life insurance.

Similar measures have failed during previous legislative sessions.

"I don't promise you they all will pass. Indeed, they all won't pass," Baker said. "But I'll take my defeats and come back the next year and try again."

France assumed a protectorate over Annam on March 15, 1874, according to the 1875 World Almanac, in a treaty signed at Saigon. The Emperor of Annam was obliged to conform his foreign policy to that of France and to recognize French possession of Cochin China while the French promised protection and suppression of piracy. The emperor, however, systematically violated treaty provisions and appealed to China for aid against the French.

Scott County swine flu inoculation is cancelled

BENTON — The Oct. 10 date set for mass swine flu inoculations for Scott County residents has been canceled, Warren Manning, administrator of the Scott County Health Department, said Wednesday.

Cancelation of the Oct. 10 date is due to the short supply of the serum, Manning added.

He said Scott County will receive supplies weekly from the regional office of the state Division of Health in Poplar Bluff, starting Oct. 12.

After the decision to cancel the mass inoculations until a later date, when a sufficient supply of serum is available, Manning said he met with the Southeast Missouri County Medical Society.

At that time, it was decided that persons 65 years old and above and high risk patients need to receive the inoculations as soon as possible. Therefore, the first vaccine received will be distributed to doctors, hospitals and nursing homes.

Manning has urged all Scott County residents in the two categories listed to contact their physicians and make appointments to receive the swine flu inoculations.

HOWARD C. TOOKE

Republican Candidate for STATE SENATOR

Speaks out on PROPERTY TAXES:

I am opposed to State-ordered, Statewide property tax reassessment, which will result in higher taxes as just as surely as if the rates were increased.
If the voters of an individual County wish to be re-assessed, I think they should have the opportunity to vote for or against such a program for their own County.
Otherwise, leave the responsibility where it is now--with your County Assessor.
Many times when property ownership changes, the assessment is greatly increased.
I would support a State Law that assessment of any one property could not be increased more than 15% in any one year unless improvements were added.
During my term as Mayor, the Cape Girardeau City property tax rate has decreased from $1.41 to 76 cents!

VOTE FOR A MAN WHO HAS TRIED TO HOLD DOWN PROPERTY TAXES!

Paid for by Tooke for Senate Committee: C.A. Hood, Chairman, Charles C. Leming, Treasurer, Box 783, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Commenting on reports that his father is very tired from the heavy campaign schedule, young Carter said his father has taken the past two days off for relaxing at the family home in Plains, Ga., and should be rested up for tonight.

He told a crowd of about 50 supporters outside the campaign headquarters that his father gives his unqualified support to Warren Hearnes, Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Stuart Symington.

He then walked down to the Cotton Carnival where he gave a short talk to the crowd and then walked through the midway shaking hands.

He had the opportunity to win a duck at one booth, by tossing a ring over its head, but missed on all three tries. He said he did not really want the duck anyway.

He also took time to take a few swings with a sledge hammer at an old automobile at a car smashing booth. The car has the names Ford painted on one side and Carter on the other.

Young Carter, of course, took the swings at the Ford side of the car.

Ben Franklin was quoted as saying, "Genius without education is like silver in the mine."

place in Philadelphia's Walnut Street Theater. There are 250 seats in the theater for the general public. But the television audience is expected to top 100 million. The debates are being carried by all four national networks.

Carter had said during the primary campaign that he would like to debate his Republican opponent. Then Ford grabbed the initiative during his acceptance speech at the GOP convention, issuing a challenge to Carter to debate him. The applause at Kansas City had barely died when Carter issued a statement agreeing to a serces of debates.

The League of Women Voters agreed to sponsor the debates, leaving them open for coverage by broadcast networks without the need to grant equal air time to other candidates.

Representatives of former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, an independent candidate for president, and Tom Anderson, the American party nominee, went to court with claims the arrangements were aimed at evading the equal time provisions of federal communications law.

McCarthy wants a court order forcing the league to include him. Anderson wants the debate halted. U.S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson rejected their petitions. They have appealed his decision.

The second debate, set for Oct. 6, will cover foreign policy and national security. The third, on Oct. 22, will have no subject limitation.

During the week between the second and third presidential debates, the two vice presidential candiates will debate.

Edwin Newman of NBC will serve as moderator of the first presidential debate. On the three-member panel of questioners will be James P. Gannon of the Wall Street Journal, Elizabeth Drew of the New Yorker and Frank Reynolds of ABC.

The flip of a coin determined that the first question will be directed at Carter. They will alternate between candidates from then on.

The candidates will have three minutes to answer a question. The panel then may ask one followup question, which the candidate has two minutes to answer. His opponent then has two minutes for his comment.

Then each man has three minutes for a closing statement, with the candidate who was asked the first question going first.

examination of the house and that no other bullets were found nor did he see a weapon at the scene.

On cross examination, Clayton stated he first saw Mrs. Parks on the night of the shooting after she had been taken to the county jail in New Madrid.

Asked by the defense counsel to describe how the defendant looked when he saw her at the jail, Clayton said her words were slurred and that he would say she was intoxicated. He said that he had not seen any bruises on the woman but that her hair was in disarray.

Her attorney stated that when he had seen Mrs. Parks the following day in Magistrate Court that her face was bruised and one eye was blackened.

Clayton said that at the time he saw Mrs. Parks she was not too upset, but she had cried a little. He said he didn't see any blood on her and that her clothing was not ripped.

Wheatley testified on direct examination that Wood and Mrs. Parks were living together in the house rented by Wood and that he had a sleeping room rented in the house. On the day of the shooting he said he had returned to the house about 4 or 5 p.m., and had gone to sleep in his room. He said he had awakened about 8 p.m. and was sitting in the kitchen looking at a magazine when Wood came in the back door.

Wheatley stated Wood walked past him and that he heard a shot. A door to the bedroom was open, according to Wheatley, and when he looked up, he saw Mrs. Parks sitting on the side of the bed with a rifle.

He said he did not pay any attention to Wood as Wood passed by him in the kitchen, and could not say what his condition was, but added that he had been told that Wood had been seen staggering down the street.

When Wood was shot and fell beside Wheatley, he said he went out the back door to report it to the police.

According to Wheatley's testimony during cross examination, he had been living in the house for three or four months, and that prior to then he and Wood had lived together for three or four years. Wheatley said the defendant had been living with Wood about nine months.

Wheatley told of being gone most of the day and said when he went into the kitchen about 8 p.m. he did not know at that time whether the woman was in the house or did not know that Wood was gone.

He stated that he had seen Wood slap the woman around two or three times, but could not state when he last saw Wood slap her, adding that he wasn't at home all the time. He said he hadn't seen them fight on the day of the shooting.

Further testifying Wheatley said that Wood drank whisky and beer, and that he was pretty sure Wood had a drink on the morning of the shooting. He said he didn't know what had happened between Wood and the woman that day and could not say whether she was drunk.

He claimed that on the day of the shooting he had been drinking at a neighbor's house and had drunk about a six-pack of beer and a half pint of whisky.

According to Wheatley, the rifle belonged to Wood, but that he thought the woman had bought it and given it to Wood. He stated the three of them often went over to the river and shot the rifle, but could not remember whether they had been shooting that day. He had first stated that the three had been over to the river shooting the rifle that morning and that Mrs. Parks had shot the gun a couple of times.

Wheatley testified that he had never heard Wood threaten the woman; never heard her threaten Wood and had never seen her fight back at Wood.

He stated at the time of the shooting he had not seen the woman fire the rifle, but when he heard the shot he looked up and saw her on the bed with the rifle, about a distance of four or five feet from Wood.

Wheatley said that when Wood walked by him in the kitchen, before the shooting,, he didn't pay any attention to Wood, and that he didn't hear Wood say a word, or didn't hear Mrs. Parks say anything.

Wingo testified that he knew Wheatley and Wood prior to the shooting but that he had never met the defendant before. He stated he knew the men drank. Asked by defense counsel if the men could be regarded as "wineos", Wingo replied they could be commonly referred to as that.

Bond worker to be featured in 'Playboy'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jimmy Carter is not the only political canddate being questioned about what's in Playboy magazine.

Geoffrey McCarron, campaign manager for Gov. Christopher S. Bond's re-election drive, said his office has received inquiries regarding Patti McGuire, a non-salaried volunteer campaign worker in Bond's St. Louis office who will be featured next month in the magazine.

"This is not Patti's first campaign," McCarron said. "In 1972 she was Florissant Valley Community College student coordinator for Bond, and she did a good job."

"I would hope that Patti's personal life and her association with Playboy will not be detrimental to her effectiveness as a voluneteer worker," McCarron said.

Hearnes, Danforth answer state municipal government's questions

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The two candidates for the U.S. Senate from Missouri sat side-by-side and for more than an hour answered questions from representatives of the state's municipal governments today. They agreed that some way must be found to keep federal controls from interfering with local decisions.

"Our country must find a sensible balance between the national and local roles," said Warren E. Hearnes, the former governor who is the Democratic nominee.

"Otherwise, we may end up with both more federal controls and more local problems," Hearnes said.

In answer to a question, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, the Republican candidate, said Congress has the power "to restrain and oversee the federal bureaucracy, but they don't exercise that authority which they already have."

The two candidates appeared before a session of the annual meeting of the Missouri Municipal League, made short opening statements and then in turn answered questions propounded by four municipal officials and members of the audience.

The two candidates were in general agreement on many of the issues put to them.

Mayor Howard C. Tooke of Cape Girardeau asked a two-pronged question about whether federal money should be withheld when local governments do not meet federal land planning requirements. The responses:

Hearnes: "No. No."

Danforth: "Ditto."

An issue on which they took exactly opposite stands was completion of the Meramec Dam southwest of St. Louis.

"It just does not make any sense," Danforth said. "Its cost cannot be justified. One thing the federal government has got to start doing is to say 'no,' and this is a chance for it to say no to $100 million."

There was big applause.

"What I want to know is where all you people were in 1967 and 1968," Hearnes said.

He noted there were campaigns in both major St. Louis newspapers at that time which insisted the 2.5 million people of the area needed Meramec as a recreational facility and that there were extensive hearings on it.

"Everyone was united for it except the canoe club," Hearnes said. "I gave my approval to it. Gov. Bond, my successor, gave his approval. Both United States senators gave their approval. The congressman from the area gave his approval.

Scott County swine flu inoculation is cancelled

BENTON — The Oct. 10 date set for mass swine flu inoculations for Scott County residents has been canceled, Warren Manning, administrator of the Scott County Health Department, said Wednesday.

Cancelation of the Oct. 10 date is due to the short supply of the serum, Manning added.

He said Scott County will receive supplies weekly from the regional office of the state Division of Health in Poplar Bluff, starting Oct. 12.

After the decision to cancel the mass inoculations until a later date, when a sufficient supply of serum is available, Manning said he met with the Southeast Missouri County Medical Society.

At that time, it was decided that persons 65 years old and above and high risk patients need to receive the innoculations as soon as possible. Therefore, the first vaccine received will be distributed to doctors, hospitals and nursing homes.

Manning has urged all Scott County residents in the two categories listed to contact their physicians and make appointments to receive the swine flu inoculations.

One good thing about bass fishing Kentucky Lake in the fall is that you don't necessarily have to be up with the chickens to be successful. Cooler temperatures in mid-day keep fish in the shallows around the clock. Anglers can enjoy a leisurely pace fishing all day without a lot of competition.

Crappie anglers also are reaping good catches from the secondary drop-offs in bays and inlets. Minnows worked through the stumps along submerged creek channels are turning up full stringers of papermouths, including several in the two-pound class.

Catfish are scattered in the bays and are cooperating well on minnows and cutbait. Medium-depth flats have produced good catches for drift fishermen, while others looking for cats have done well on trotlines.

The Kentucky Lake Fall Fishing Derby is approximately half completed, and as mentioned, has been very successful to date. The Derby is open to registerted guests of participating motels, resorts, campgrounds, and houseboat rentals. Weekly prizes are passed out for the top catches in six categories, and a bevy of cash awards will be presented at the Derby's end for best catches of the season. Derby competitin ends November 1st.

It looks now as if the peak of the turning leaves will arrive in the second or third week of October. Maples, hackberries, and sumac trees are starting to change colors now, and by the middle of next month Kentucky Lake's shoreline will be ablaze with all the brilliance of the fall pageant. Many residents and fall visitors agree that it's the most beautiful and enjoyable time to be on the lake.

Though most visitors concentrate on the fall fishing, others are attracted by the variety of other outdoor activities. It offers ample opportunity to "get away" for an hour or a week.

Bowhunting for deer is also popular in Land Between the Lakes. Whitetail and fallow deer herds are in excellent condition this year, and a record number of archers are expected to test their skills in the area's thousands of secluded woodland acres. The season opens October 9th, and permits from LBL are free. Hunters must purchase current Kentucky and Tennessee licenses, however.

Later in the fall and winter West Kentucky serves as a magnet for thousands of migrating waterfowl. Canada geese and ducks of all kinds pour into the fields, bottoms an lakes areas, and commercial guides host shooters from all over the country. Prospects for this year's hunt are bright; water levels and crop harvests are such that a higher-than-normal flight should be attracted.

For a non-sportsman, the area has a variety of things to see and do. The annual Octorberfest festival, held in conjunction with the Fall Fishing Derby, offers fun and excitement for all. Country music, antique shops and other attractions may be enjoyed in an uncrowded, unhurried pace.

Ohio State to whip MU, Major Hoople predicts

By Major Ames B. Hoople
The Wizard of Odds

Egad, friends, here we are with just one-fourth of the season over and most of the experts preseason choices for Top Ten rating have been the victims of astonishing upsets. But this week we should see the return of sanity to the collegiate gridirons, not that there won't be an upset or two.

Among the stellar attractions this Saturday will be the South Carolina-Georgia Bulldogs game at Athens where the invading Gamecocks will be shooting for the — heh-heh — mythical Georgia state title. Having already conquered Georgia Tech, Ron Bass and his mates can make it a clean sweep by taking home a 24-11 victory over the Georgia lads.

Also in the South, Mississippi, which startled the Southeastern Conference two weeks ago by jolting top-heavy favorite Alabama, should have little trouble disposing of intrastate rival Southern Mississippi, 23-12. And at Baton Rouge, resurgent Louisiana State will turn back the Rice eleven, 28-17.

The Oklahoma Sooners will entertain rebuilding Florida State and should silence the Seminoles, 24-0. The UCLA-Air Force contest promises to be a lively affair with the home-field edge going to the Bruins. We see it UCLA 28, Air Force 22. But a reversal of this score wouldn't surprise your favorite correspondent — kaff-kaff.

Michigan and Ohio State, once again the Big Two of the Big Ten, are Hoople favorites to win on Saturday. The Ohio State Buckeyes have by far the most difficult assignment taking on the tough Missouri aggregation on the Tigers' home grounds. The Bucks dainty — heh-heh — 247-pound fullback Pete Johnson will lead his mates to a 32-16 triumph. The Michigan Wolves play host to the Navy midshipmen in what will be an unpleasant afternoon for the Middies. Make it Michigan 40, Navy 12.

Maryland, which appears to be gaining strength with each outing, will roll over Syracuse, 35-7. And Arizona State's Sun Devils will be out to redeem themselves following their disappointing showing against UCLA, by jolting Joe Roth and his California cohorts, 28-15.

Major Hoople's Football Forecast

The Pittsburgh Panthers, our nominee earlier this year for "The Sleeper of the Year" award, will continue its climb back to the heights scaled by Jock Sutherland's great Pitt teams, by whaling a game Temple crew, 47-7, to the delight of the home folks.

Now go on with my forecast:

Birds announce plan to rebuild program

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have announced an "aggressive strategy plan" to rebuild their sagging fortunes in the National League.

August Busch Jr., president of the baseball club, received a vote of confidence Wednesday from the board of directors to undertake the plan, which embraces "player procurement and development, promotions and other strategies to improve the standing and viability of the Cardinals."

The Cardinals have skidded to fifth place in the National League East this season and home attendance has plunged by about 500,000.

Busch said last week he would ask the board for $3 million or $4 million to seek free-agent players this fall, but there was no mention of money in a brief statement on the meeting.

The statement said, "Because of the competitive nature of the business, details of the long-range plan will not be revealed, but will be made public as implemented."

Teenagers discovered binoculars

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Who spilled the beans about the infamous pair of binoculars in the Oakland A's bullpen?

Would you believe a pair of teen-aged groundskeepers for the Kansas City Royals?

"We really didn't know what to do then because we didn't know if we could prove it," said Rick Wilks, 17-year-old high school student.

Wilks and Don Farley, 16, spotted Oakland reliever Rollie Fingers using the binoculars in the first inning of Tuesday night's game between the A's and Royals.

"In the fifth inning we called Paul Splittorf in the Royals bullpen about the binoculars and I guess he told the dugout," said Farley.

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, whose team eventually won, 3-1, stormed out of the dugout in the sixth, found the binoculars and turned them over to Umpire Nestor Chylak.

After which, Wilks and Farley departed the Oakland bullpen.

"You don't know what they'd say to you out there if they found out you were the stoolie," Wilks said. "I thought I might end up as a free agent grounds crewman next year."

Pirates lose to Chicago

AP Sports Writer

The numbers are against them, and those numbers are getting worse each day. But the Pittsburgh Pirates are not yet ready to throw in the towel.

"Maybe we'll have to win our last 10 in a row and the Phillies will have to lose 10," said Pirates outfielder Al Oliver. "It's not logical, but it's still possible."

Each day, however, the possibility grows more and more remote. The Pirates took another step towards elimination Wednesday when they dropped a 4-3 heartbreaker to the Chicago Cubs on a run-scoring single by Joe Wallis in the ninth inning.

That loss, coupled with Philadelphia's 9-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, sank the Pirates six full games behind Philadelphia in the National League East. The Phils have 12 games remaining, the Pirates just 10.

Team leader Willie Stargell agreed, however, that there's no point to the Pirates rolling over and playing dead.

"We've just got to keep playing, that's all," said Stargell. "We've come too far for me to say anthing else. Our attitude just can't change. No matter what the outcome, we can't say we lost because we didn't put forth an effort."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the San Francisco Giants 3-1, the Cincinnati Reds edged the San Diego Padres 4-3, the New York Mets beat the Montreal Expos 4-2 and the Houston Astros defeated the Atlanta Braves 5-2.

The Pirates have lost seven of their last 11 games, including three of thier last four — each in heartstopping fashion. On Monday, Mets rookie Lee Mazzilli hit a two-run homer with two-out in the ninth to beat Pittburgh 5-4. They lost the second half of a double-header Tuesday 2-1 to Chicago on a two-out single in the 13th inning.

And Wednesday it was Joe Wallis' single off relief pitcher Kent Tekulve which drove home Jerry Tabb from second for a 4-3 decision. Tabb, a pinch-hitter, had walked to start the ninth and taken second on a sacrifice. After Rick Monday was intentionally walked, Wallis delivered his game-winning hit on a 3-1 count.

Phils 9, Cards 4

Philadelphia erupted for eight runs in the eighth inning to beat St. Louis. Dick Allen's two-run single off Cards relief ace Al Hrabosky snapped a 4-4 tie, then Bob Boone added a two-run single later in the big eighth-inning outburst.

Brick. The Saver

Today, saving energy is perhaps your number one design priority. Several thousand years ago, we came up with a rather earthly solution to energy conservation.

Brick walls are simply unmatched in their ability to reduce heating and cooling costs...drastically. In fact, an insulated brick wall is as much as 430% more efficient than a double plate glass wall in reducing heat loss. And as much as 75 times more efficient in reducing solar heat gain! A startling difference.

Furthermore, the same brick wall has a much lower initial cost than double plate glass. We think you'll find the answer to saving energy. And money.

Want A Lush Lawn Next Spring?

Lawn experts agree—to have a lush lawn next spring, give it a beauty treatment this fall.

Fertilize in fall? Yes! But don't fertilize the thatch in your lawn. Power rake first, to remove undecomposed grass stems, leaves and roots. This layer of material prevents air, water and fertilizers from entering the soil—and acts as a harbor for disease and insect organisms. So, out with thatch first!

Ohio State to whip MU, Major Hoople predicts

By Major Amos B. Hoople
The Wizard of Odds

Egad, friends, here we are with just one-fourth of the season over and most of the experts preseason choices for Top Ten rating have been the victims of astonishing upsets. But this week we should see the return of sanity to the collegiate gridirons, not that there won't be an upset or two.

Among the stellar attractions this Saturday will be the South Carolina-Georgia Bulldogs game at Athens where the invading Gamecocks will be shooting for the — heh-heh — mythical Georgia state title. Having already conquered Georgia Tech, Ron Bass and his mates can make it a clean sweep by taking home a 24-11 victory over the Georgia lads.

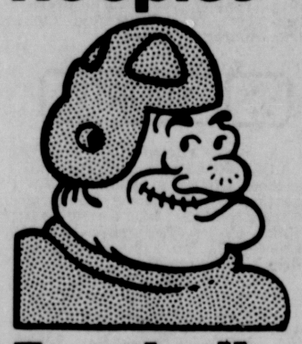
Also in the South, Mississippi, which startled the Southeastern Conference two weeks ago by jolting top-heavy favorite Alabama, should have little trouble disposing of intrastate rival Southern Mississippi, 23-12. And at Baton Rouge, resurgent Louisiana State will turn back the Rice eleven, 28-17.

The Oklahoma Sooners will entertain rebuilding Florida State and should silence the Seminoles, 24-0. The UCLA-Air Force contest promises to be a lively affair with the home-field edge going to the Bruins. We see it UCLA 28, Air Force 22. But a reversal of this score wouldn't surprise your favorite correspondent — kaff-kaff.

Michigan and Ohio State, once again the Big Two of the Big Ten, are Hoople favorites to win on Saturday. The Ohio State Buckeyes have by far the most difficult assignment taking on the tough Missouri aggregation on the Tigers' home grounds. The Bucks dainty — heh-heh — 247-pound fullback Pete Johnson will lead his mates to a 32-16 triumph. The Michigan Wolves play host to the Navy midshipmen in what will be an unpleasant afternoon for the Middies. Make it Michigan 40, Navy 12.

Maryland, which appears to be gaining strength with each outing, will roll over Syracuse, 35-7. And Arizona State's Sun Devils will be out to redeem themselves following their disappointing showing against UCLA, by jolting Joe Roth and his California cohorts, 28-15.

Major Hoople's Football Forecast



The Pittsburgh Panthers, our nominee earlier this year for "The Sleeper of the Year" award, will continue its climb back to the heights scaled by Jock Sutherland's great Pitt teams, by whaling a game Temple crew, 47-7, to the delight of the home folks.

Dexter athletes lead North; Johnson, Hunt & Kiefer top S.D

The SEMO Conference stats after the games of September 17, find Dexter players leading in every offensive category in the Northern Division except scoring where Jerome Smith of Cape leads coming off a fine performance last week.

In the Southern Division, Danny Johnson of East Prairie leads the rushers by a huge margin while Bruce Hunt of Doniphan has thrown for 309 yards to lead all passers. Donnie Kiefer of Chaffee leads in receptions and scoring.

Rushing and passing statistics are based solely on total yards and some individual performances may go unrecognized due to lack of information from some of the coaches in the area.

OUTDOOR TOPICS

by Bob Brewster

Fall is an ideal time to plan a photo outing, and some of the prettiest picture settings occur around the lakes and streams which have been popular boating sites all summer.

It isn't difficult to capture on film the beauty of Fall, but it does take a little effort to get the really great pictures most of us desire. The professional photographers in Mercury outboards' outdoor recreation department suggest you keep in mind two basic techniques commonly used to get the kind of pictures that appear in calendars and magazines.

Almost all outdoor color can be improved by providing a dark blue sky as background. Often this isn't possible unless a polarizing filter is used. Polarizing intensifies the blues appearing in trees and the sky, and this helps the other colors in your photograph to stand out against the dark horizon.

Check with your local camera store for more information about polarizing filters. They're simple to use and are worth learning about.

Scenic photos are usually enhanced by the addition of action. This can be as little as someone standing in the foreground and looking toward the horizon, or it can be more elaborate with several people roasting hot dogs over a fire, or a similar picnic scene.

It's not difficult to set up such a picture with your family, and the resulting photos will make the extra effort worthwhile. Be sure to choose a site where colorful trees and bushes form a backdrop to the action scene in the foreground.

Tanner says A's must win ten straight to have a chance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Chuck Tanner is known throughout the American League as an eternal optimist.

But the Oakland A's manager isn't a man to let one victory go to his head. Not when he needs at least six more.

"We have to win the rest. We put together a nine-game winning streak once this year," said Tanner Wednesday night after his A's routed the Kansas City Royals, 11-1.

"If we win nine straight again, we could be back in there."

The Oakland victory narrowed Kansas City's margin in the American League West to six games over the A's with 10 contests remaining. The two rivals meet four more times before the season ends.

"Tomorrow night's game is more important now than it would have been if we'd lost," said Tanner. "It's as important as that first game (a victory) was to Kansas City."

The Oakland manager admitted that his team, which has played little better than .500 baseball except for the winning streak, still faced a tough job. But he refused to concede the title.

"I'm being as realistic as I can," he remarked. "We were 12 games back and everyone said it was over. Then a week ago they look back all of a sudden and say, 'Hey, we're in a pennant race.' Look at the Pirates, they made up 10 games in a week or so. Look what happened to the '64 Phillies. It's happened before."

Gene Tenace, Phil Garner and Joe Rudi each slugged home runs to back the six-hit pitching of Vida Blue, who won his 17th game against 12 losses. But the Royals, who had won five straight, helped out with two errors that led to six unearned runs. Marty Pattin, 8-13, took the loss.

Tenace predicted that the Royals would have to win the title, because the A's would not give it to them.

"We're six games out and these are the loosest guys I've ever seen," said the Oakland catcher. "We're just going out and playing our best. If it's not to be, it's not to be. But we're not going to put any extra pressure on ourselves."

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, whose Royals won eight of 11 games following an 18-3 route by Minnesota Sept. 11, tried to shrug off the loss.

"If we win tomorrow night, we'll be sitting pretty," he said. "If they win, I'm sure they'll feel they got a chance."

Tenace banged his 21st homer with two outs in the first, after Freddie Patek dropped a pop fly in short left-field for an error, and the A's cruised to a 4-1 lead after two innings.

Garner capped a four-run outburst in the sixth with a three-run, two-out shot following Frank White's error, then Rudi sparked a three-run seventh with a blast to left with no one out and one man on.

The Royals scored their lone run in the first when George Brett singled and Hal McRae doubled off Sal Bando's glove, but the rally died when McRae was nailed trying to stretch the hit into a triple.

Phils explode in eighth to beat Cards, pad lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies held a meeting before Wednesday night's game deciding on how to split the National League playoff and World Series money.

Then, just to prove it wasn't a sign of over-confidence, they went out and rallied for eight runs in the eighth inning to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 9-4.

You really couldn't blame the Phils for their preparations. They are now six games ahead of the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East Division with just 12 games to play. The West Division champion Cincinnati Reds, however, might object to that World Series no'ion.

The Phillies' magic number is now six, which means any combination of six Philadelphia victories, and-or Pittsburgh defeats, gives the Phils the East Division.

Someone asked Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark how he felt with a six game pad and only 12 to play.

"It is very comfortable at this particular time," replied the manager.

At that point Ozark was reminded that the 1964 Phillies led the National League by 6½ games with 12 to play and woundup watching the Series on television. The manager acted as if he didn't hear the remark.

The game Wednesday night against the Cardinals didn't start like it would be a night to talk about playoff and World Series money, or champagne. St. Louis scored four runs in the first inning off Jim Kaat. Lou Brock hit a two-run homer and Keith Hernandez a two-run double.

Although Dick Allen singled in a first-inning Phillies' run, the next six innings were frustrating for Ozark and his title seekers. They left 12 runners on base against starter Pete Falcone and his relief, Tom Walker.

The Phils finally broke through in the eighth against Walker, Cards' ace reliever Al Hrabosky and Eddie Solomon.

First 8th grade game held tonight

The first eighth grade football game of the season highlights tonight's schedule of Sikeston High School sports activities.

The eighth graders take on Perryville in a 7:00 contest at Public School Stadium. Last year's eighth grade team, coached by Mike Foster and Webb Edwards, went undefeated.

The freshman footballers will shoot for their second victory in a row when they meet Perryville at Perryville.

Terre will also be gisl action schedule fo this afternoon and tonight. Dexter's tennis team invades Sikeston to play the 3-0 SHS co-eds at the high school courts this afternoon at 4:00. The volleyball team will shoot for its second win when they host Poplar Bluff at the field house beginning at 6:30.

Dexter athletes lead North; Johnson, Hunt & Kiefer top S.D

The SEMO Conference stats after the games of September 17, find Dexter players leading in every offensive category in the Northern Division except scoring where Jerome Smith of Cape leads coming off a fine performance last week.

In the Southern Division, Danny Johnson of East Prairie leads the rushers by a huge margin while Bruce Hunt of Doniphan has thrown for 309 yards to lead all passers. Donnie Kiefer of Chaffee leads in receptions and scoring.

Rushing and passing statistics are based solely on total yards and some individual performances may go unrecognized due to lack of information from some of the coaches in the area.

OUTDOOR TOPICS

by Bob Brewster

Fall is an ideal time to plan a photo outing, and some of the prettiest picture settings occur around the lakes and streams which have been popular boating sites all summer.

It isn't difficult to capture on film the beauty of Fall, but it does take a little effort to get the really great pictures most of us desire. The professional photographers in Mercury outboards' outdoor recreation department suggest you keep in mind two basic techniques commonly used to get the kind of pictures that appear in calendars and magazines.

Almost all outdoor color can be improved by providing a dark blue sky as background. Often this isn't possible unless a polarizing filter is used. Polarizing intensifies the blues appearing in trees and the sky, and this helps the other colors in your photograph to stand out against the dark horizon.

Check with your local camera store for more information about polarizing filters. They're simple to use and are worth learning about.

Scenic photos are usually enhanced by the addition of action. This can be as little as someone standing in the foreground and looking toward the horizon, or it can be more elaborate with several people roasting hot dogs over a fire, or a similar picnic scene.

It's not difficult to set up such a picture with your family, and the resulting photos will make the extra effort worthwhile. Be sure to choose a site where colorful trees and bushes form a backdrop to the action scene in the foreground.

Tanner says A's must win ten straight to have a chance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Chuck Tanner is known throughout the American League as an eternal optimist.

But the Oakland A's manager isn't a man to let one victory go to his head. Not when he needs at least six more.

"We have to win the rest. We put together a nine-game winning streak once this year," said Tanner Wednesday night after his A's routed the Kansas City Royals, 11-1.

"If we win nine straight again, we could be back in there."

The Oakland victory narrowed Kansas City's margin in the American League West to six games over the A's with 10 contests remaining. The two rivals meet four more times before the season ends.

"Tomorrow night's game is more important now than it would have been if we'd lost," said Tanner. "It's as important as that first game (a victory) was to Kansas City."

The Oakland manager admitted that his team, which has played little better than .500 baseball except for the winning streak, still faced a tough job. But he refused to concede the title.

"I'm being as realistic as I can," he remarked. "We were 12 games back and everyone said it was over. Then a week ago they look back all of a sudden and say, 'Hey, we're in a pennant race.' Look at the Pirates, they made up 10 games in a week or so. Look what happened to the '64 Phillies. It's happened before."

Gene Tenace, Phil Garner and Joe Rudi each slugged home runs to back the six-hit pitching of Vida Blue, who won his 17th game against 12 losses. But the Royals, who had won five straight, helped out with two errors that led to six unearned runs. Marty Pattin, 8-13, took the loss.

Tenace predicted that the Royals would have to win the title, because the A's would not give it to them.

"We're six games out and these are the loosest guys I've ever seen," said the Oakland catcher. "We're just going out and playing our best. If it's not to be, it's not to be. But we're not going to put any extra pressure on ourselves."

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, whose Royals won eight of 11 games following an 18-3 route by Minnesota Sept. 11, tried to shrug off the loss.

"If we win tomorrow night, we'll be sitting pretty," he said. "If they win, I'm sure they'll feel they got a chance."

Tenace banged his 21st homer with two outs in the first, after Freddie Patek dropped a pop fly in short left-field for an error, and the A's cruised to a 4-1 lead after two innings.

Garner capped a four-run outburst in the sixth with a three-run, two-out shot following Frank White's error, then Rudi sparked a three-run seventh with a blast to left with no one out and one man on.

The Royals scored their lone run in the first when George Brett singled and Hal McRae doubled off Sal Bando's glove, but the rally died when McRae was nailed trying to stretch the hit into a triple.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Sept. 23, the 267th day of 1976. There are 99 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 63 B.C., the first Roman emperor, Augustus Caesar, was born.

On this date:

In 1780, during the American Revolution, the British spy, Major John Andre, was captured, and papers he carried revealed Benedict Arnold's plot to surrender West Point to the British.

In 1806, the Lewis and Clark expedition to explore west of the Mississippi River was completed.

In 1817, Spain signed a treaty with Britain to end the slave trade.

In 1845, the first U.S. baseball club, the New York Knickerbocker Club, was organized.

In 1951, in the Korean War, United Nations forces captured the hill known as "Heartbreak Ridge" from the Communists.

In 1952, Vice Presidential candidate Richard Nixon went on nationwide radio and television to deny charges of wrongdoing in his campaign financing.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson signed a bill to boost the minimum wage to $1.60 an hour and bring eight million more people under its coverage.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon announced the retirement of ailing U.S. Supreme Court Justice John Harlan.

One year ago: President Ford rejected suggestions that he curtail public appearances following the second apparent attempt on his life in 17 days.

Today's birthdays: Singer and composer Ray Charles is 44. Actor Mickey Rooney is 56.

Thought for today: The impersonal hand of government can never replace the helping hand of a neighbor. — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn.

PEOPLE... IN THE NEWS

ROBERT DOLE

VICE - PRESIDENTIAL hopeful Walter F. Mondale says there is a "difference in emphasis" between his own and Jimmy Carter's views on some issues. The Minnesota senator reiterated his support of Supreme Court decisions protecting legal rights of defendants, which the Democratic presidential nominee has criticized.

CARTER ADMINISTRATION could be expected to follow the leads of its recent Democratic predecessors but on a modified scale. The Democratic presidential nominee says he believes in the goals of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, but favors re-evaluation of New Frontier and Great Society programs in relation to cost and effectiveness.

HOPING to put an end to seven years of Socialist rule in Bonn, Helmut Kohl is leading the opposition Christian Democrats in the campaign for the West German general election Oct. 3. If the Christian Democrats win a majority of Bundestag seats, Kohl would head the new government as chancellor.

4-H Alumni Number 36 Million

CHICAGO—An estimated 36 million Americans—about one-sixth of the U.S. population—are former 4-H members, according to Extension Service, USDA, statistics for 1975.

4-H alumni may be as ordinary as the man next door or as famous as America's first astronaut, Alan B. Shepard Jr. But as a whole they constitute a vast talent pool that can be brought back into active support of 4-H through the national 4-H alumni recognition program.

Program in 24th year

The program was launched in 1953 to identify and honor former 4-H'ers who are living examples of 4-H ideals, and to encourage their continued participation in 4-H.

County, state and national awards donated by Olin Corporation recognize outstanding men and women whose accomplishments, following 4-H membership, exemplify effective community leadership, public service, service to 4-H and success in their chosen careers.

Nominations are in order

Nominations at the county level may be made by local 4-H clubs, county 4-H councils, county extension offices or interested individuals. Up to four 4-H alumni in each county are eligible for recognition pins.

Four alumni winners per state, selected from among county winners, are awarded recognition plaques.

Eight national winners will receive gold keys and expense-paid trips to the 56th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 27-Dec. 1, 1977, in Chicago, where they will be honored at a dinner hosted by Olin.

All winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

County and state extension offices can provide nomination forms and more details on the recognition program.

PEOPLE... IN THE NEWS

ROBERT DOLE

VICE - PRESIDENTIAL hopeful Walter F. Mondale says there is a "difference in emphasis" between his own and Jimmy Carter's views on some issues. The Minnesota senator reiterated his support of Supreme Court decisions protecting legal rights of defendants, which the Democratic presidential nominee has criticized.

CARTER ADMINISTRATION could be expected to follow the leads of its recent Democratic predecessors but on a modified scale. The Democratic presidential nominee says he believes in the goals of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, but favors re-evaluation of New Frontier and Great Society programs in relation to cost and effectiveness.

HOPING to put an end to seven years of Socialist rule in Bonn, Helmut Kohl is leading the opposition Christian Democrats in the campaign for the West German general election Oct. 3. If the Christian Democrats win a majority of Bundestag seats, Kohl would head the new government as chancellor.

4-H Alumni Number 36 Million

CHICAGO—An estimated 36 million Americans—about one-sixth of the U.S. population—are former 4-H members, according to Extension Service, USDA, statistics for 1975.

4-H alumni may be as ordinary as the man next door or as famous as America's first astronaut, Alan B. Shepard Jr. But as a whole they constitute a vast talent pool that can be brought back into active support of 4-H through the national 4-H alumni recognition program.

Program in 24th year

The program was launched in 1953 to identify and honor former 4-H'ers who are living examples of 4-H ideals, and to encourage their continued participation in 4-H.

County, state and national awards donated by Olin Corporation recognize outstanding men and women whose accomplishments, following 4-H membership, exemplify effective community leadership, public service, service to 4-H and success in their chosen careers.

Nominations are in order

Nominations at the county level may be made by local 4-H clubs, county 4-H councils, county extension offices or interested individuals. Up to four 4-H alumni in each county are eligible for recognition pins.

Four alumni winners per state, selected from among county winners, are awarded recognition plaques.

Eight national winners will receive gold keys and expense-paid trips to the 56th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 27-Dec. 1, 1977, in Chicago, where they will be honored at a dinner hosted by Olin.

All winners are chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

County and state extension offices can provide nomination forms and more details on the recognition program.
